Herman and Edna Behm celebrate 60th wedding anniversary, reminisce about early years

By TIM FROEHLIG
Staff Reporter

In an age where divorce has become commonplace, the marriage of Antioch residents Herman and Edna Behm has withstood the test of time. On June 6 the couple will celebrate its 60th wedding anniversary, showing no signs of slowing down.

"We've had a great, great life," said Herman Behm.

The two met when Herman used to play in an orchestra, and Edna would come to the dances where he played. Both have lived in Lake County their entire lives. In 1936 he began hauling milk to Chicago at age 15 for Behm's Milk Service. Herman Behm did this until 1944, when he sold his business to the Pure Milk Association. At the time, he noted that his business was the largest employer in Grayslake, with 40 employees.

Following the sale of his business, he began working as an auctioneer. For 50 years Herman Behm made a living selling a wide variety of items.

"I sold everything from ocean-going ships to antiques," he said. "I used to cover the whole United States and Canada."

In 1964 he expanded his work and began auctioning construction equipment. Edna Behm would help him with the work whenever she had the time, but she usually stayed at home to raise their two children. They have two daughters, Connie and Kay, four grandchildren and six great grandchildren. Edna Behm describes the family as a very close one.

"We get together on all birthdays and anniversaries," she said. "They all live close."

"Our girls are the greatest thing," said Herman Behm, recalling the days when they lived on a farm and raised horses.

In the 1990s he retired from auctioneering but has since had a change of heart. Herman Behm says he will soon manage an auction company on Rte. 12, in Fox Lake. There will be dealer auctions, car auctions, estate sales, antique sales and more. He claimed that it will be open four days a week, and that he is "excited" about returning to what he loves doing.

"Don't ever retire because it's tough to retire," he said. "You've gotta keep doing something."

Burke favors Connecticut position

By TIM FROEHLIG
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community Consolidated School District 34 Superintendent Daniel Burke will resign effective June 30, as he plans to pursue professional challenges elsewhere. On April 26 he stated that he is a finalist for a number of positions elsewhere.

Burke explained that he is in the running for several potential jobs, including ones in Kentucky, California, Illinois and Connecticut. He also has submitted his credentials in hopes of obtaining an assistant professorship at Ball State University in Indiana.

"They're all very excellent opportunities," said Burke.

He said that the job that would be most exciting would be the one in Connecticut, because it creates new challenges for him. According to Burke, the school is a kindergarten through eighth grade school looking to expand through the twelfth grade.

"I must say that's a little bit different challenge than some of the other jobs," Burke said. "I find that exciting."

The expansion in Connecticut has already received voter approval, according to Burke.

He submitted letter of resignation to the board of education Feb. 15.

Teens ask Village for right to skate

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The room full of Antioch teens addressed the Village Board with the desire to skate, skateboard, and ride bikes.

The question for them is where and how this can be done without getting into trouble.

"We feel that we are being treated unfairly by the cops giving us tickets and being thrown off of public property," commented one of the teens, David Nielsen, before the board May 1.

To help justify the request for a skate park, the group referred to the amount of money which was spent on the Sliding Hill and Centennial Park.

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug quickly clarified that both of those parks were paid for with donated funds.

Village administrator Tim Wells went to great lengths to explain the process necessary to get a skating park under works. Minimally, the names and addresses of those interested in a skate park are needed to

Antioch Village Board says e-commerce could jeopardize local services

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The board of directors of the Village of Antioch passed the E-Commerce Equity Resolution May 1, which will be sent down to the congressional delegation.

The resolution states that the moratorium on sales tax given to Internet companies gives e-commerce an unfair advantage over local businesses and jeopardizes the funding of central local services such as police, fire and other infrastructure needs.

The growing volume of tax-free sales transactions occurring over the Internet restricts the ability of state and local governments to collect taxes which finance these essential public services.

The Advisory Commission on Electronic Commerce, established by the Internet Tax Freedom Act, has failed to address these issues in a fair and equitable manner, according to Mayor Marilyn J. Shineflug. For this reason, the Village of Antioch opposes any congressional action to implement the Advisory Commission on Electronic Commerce's report proposals that would pre-empt state and local sovereignty.

Further, the village opposes any efforts to extend the current moratorium unless the extension is for two years or less and is directly linked to congressional authorization to states that simplify their sales and use tax system to collect use tax on all remote transactions.

Proposed zoning text amendments approved

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Village Board of Antioch unanimously approved proposed zoning text amendments to be referred to the Combined Planning Commission and Zoning Board for review and recommendation.

The amendments answer the concern expressed by residents in the East Sub-Area after last month's public hearing, when the village refused to annex 40 acres owned by the Chicago Archdiocese, and 257 acres of land owned by Alfred and Dale Pederson.

The East Sub-Area is defined as the territory situated east of Deep Lake Rd. and includes some of the most environmentally sensitive land in north-central Lake County.

From March 1 forward, all annexation agreements for East Sub-Area parcels will require the same density or intensity of development as that indicated in the Comprehensive Plan.

"The proposal adds language to the E-1 (residential one-acre estate) which acknowledges the Comprehensive Plan," said Bob Silhan, director of planning, zoning and building.

This protects the sensitive land areas without hindering development in other areas of Antioch.

Rebates to be offered in lawnmower exchange

Lawn care information, demonstrations to be given May 6

By MICHELLE HABRYCH
Staff Reporter

Lake County residents may take advantage of a special deal offered in conjunction with the Metropolitan Mayor's Caucus and sponsored in part by the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO), the Lake County University of Illinois Extension office, the Lake County Farm Bureau and the Lake County Health Department.

"Cut Pollution While You Cut

Your Grass" offers area residents an opportunity to exchange gasoline-powered lawn mowers for a rebate towards a new, cleaner mower. A $60 rebate for an electric or battery-powered motor will be offered, as well as a $20 rebate towards a manual reel mower. The event will take place Saturday, May 6 at the University of Illinois Extension Office, 100 S. Rte. 45 in Grayslake.

Why turn in the mower? According to 1996 estimates by the United States Environmental Protection Agency, the use of gasoline-powered lawn and garden equipment is responsible for emitting 60 tons per day of Volatile Organic Compounds into Chicagoland's air. Operating a gas mower for one hour pollutes about as much as driving a car 50 miles. More than half of the ozone-causing emissions come from mobile sources, such as mowers and cars.

According to Monica Duebbert, SWALCO public information coordinator, the exchange is to help cut down ozone emissions and, thus, reduce the number of ozone action days seen in the Chicagoland area. "That's a good way to get emissions down," Duebbert said of the exchange.

Beginning at 8:30 a.m., rebates will be distributed on a first come, first serve basis. Mini-workshops will be offered from Bruce Spangenberg, "turf specialist," beginning at 9 a.m. Spangenberg will teach "Putting Together a Lawn Care Calendar," followed by "Lawn Care with Less Chemicals" at 10 a.m. and "Renovating New Life into Lawns" at 11 a.m. There will be lawn equipment demonstrations by Toro and Black and Decker. Natural resource educator John Church will have a display and answer any questions about lawn-scape management, best management practices for your yard and watershed. Participants will have the opportunity to ask gardening questions and learn tips from master gardeners. Duebbert said the event will "promote more eco-friendly ways to take care of lawns" with these demonstrations and informational booths.

For more information on the Lake County mower rebate and demonstration event, contact Monica Duebbert at 336-9340 ext. 4.

Arbor Day brings students, community leaders together

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

True to the very first Arbor Day celebration in Nebraska in 1872, Antioch's celebration in North Park on Saturday, April 29 emphasized replenishing trees within the community.

The Arbor Day committee, park board members, members of the Antioch Jr. Woman's Club, National Junior Honor Society (NJHS) members of Antioch Upper Grade School, Miss Antioch Jennifer Kerner, Little Miss Antioch Anna Wenstrom and Mayor Marilyn Shineflug all joined efforts to plant trees, mulch, and hand out 800 free Austrian Pine seedlings to residents who had reserved them.

There was a little panic early on as 400 trees were "lost," but with a little tracking by Laurie Stahl of the Parks and Recreation Department, and co-chairman of the Arbor Day committee, the trees were retrieved from a nearby residence, where they had mistakenly been delivered. From there, it was smooth sailing.

"This celebration is a great thing. It's bigger than any one person is. It brings kids and community leaders together to work on civic improvements.

This way, we can give back to the natural beauty of our community along with the development," said Bud Newton, co-chairman of the Arbor Day committee.

Gina Florian, a seventh-grader and first year member of the NJHS commented, "It's fun to be out with friends and help the earth at the same time."

As if to pound the point home, a neighboring group of NJHS members masked the sounds of their labor with the lyrics of the popular N Sync song "Bye Bye Bye."

Classmate Elizabeth Burdellik shoveled mulch into a neat arrangement and added, "It's great that kids are getting involved with Arbor Day and helping the community."

"These kids are the best. They're great kids. They love to help out," stated Wes Owens, reading and language arts teacher at Antioch Upper Grade School and supervisor of the NJHS.

Owens continued, "This is part of their community service. Throughout the year, the NJHS works at the Oakland Fun Fair, tutoring younger students and assists with the uptown Easter Egg Hunt.

'It's fun to be out with friends and help the earth at the same time.'

Gina Florian
member of the NJHS

Arbor Day was added 6 or 7 years ago. Bud Newton thought it would be a great idea to get some of the upper grade kids involved with the project.

Residents were able to write in to the Parks Office to reserve 5 trees each, and more than enough requests had been made to cover all 800 trees.

"We don't charge for the trees," said Stahl, "but we certainly welcome donations. Funding for our Arbor Day Celebration comes in part from those donations. Another $2500 comes from the Park Improvement Plan."

"Every year we choose a different park to decorate. This is a regular budget item," Stahl explained.

Kids continued to mill around looking for something to do as the work wound down. They found that something when hot dogs, donated by Pizza Plus, showed up at lunchtime.

Students at Grass Lake School revisit chivalry

By TIM FROELIG
Staff Reporter

Grass Lake School sixth-graders took a trip to the past May 2 in order to enhance their study of the Middle Ages. Students wore specially designed costumes which reflected the era and then held a medieval banquet in the school's gymnasium.

"We've done this probably for five years," said teacher Caroline Adams. "The kids really look forward to this."

The students just completed their study of the crusades, and at the banquet were encouraged to use the terms and language of the time.

"Try to take on the role you're in today," advised art teacher Carol Sackschewsky. "All of our manners we have today come from that era."

Sackschewsky encouraged the sixth graders to use polite terms such as "sir" and "my lady." The event was another chapter in the school's attempt to integrate the social studies, art and language arts programs. Food was supplied by parents and teachers, including breads, cheeses, vegetables, cupcakes and cookies. Because people in the Middle Ages used their fingers to eat more often than utensils, the students ate only "finger foods."

Boys wore tunics and girls wore dresses, or long skirts with blouses. The items were made by an after-school committee consisting of students and parents coordinated by Adams and Sackschewsky two years ago. The boys sat opposite the girls at the banquet table, and each student sat in front of a personal shield they created. Each shield contained a coat of arms, which tells a story about or identifies the student's family.

"Our art teacher is just wonderful," Adams said. "To me it's a lot more interesting if you integrate art."

Even Superintendent Jim Beveridge got into the spirit of the occasion, wearing a kilt he claimed belonged to his father, who was born in Scotland.

"The kids did a real good job," said Beveridge. "It makes the learning a little bit better for them."

In total, 14 boys and 19 girls participated in the event. To further enhance their experience, students were treated to a special presentation the following day by Caton Enterprises Ltd., called Knights &

Shining Armour. The organization performed for the sixth-graders for approximately an hour, dressing in full armor while providing information about weapons of the time. They used props to illustrate their information, and then held a question and answer session. Caroline Adams called the events a success.

"We all (the teachers and students) work very well together, and we enjoy doing it," Adams said.

Teen Court set to begin in Antioch May 16

By TIM FROELIG
Staff Reporter

The Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA) will hold its first session of Teen Court May 16. NICASA is working in conjunction with the Antioch Police and other Lake County police departments to find an alternative to the traditional criminal justice system.

The program targets first-time non-violent offenders, ages 13-16.

Instead of being sentenced in a court of law, teens have the option of being judged by a jury of their peers. According to teen court coordinator Jennifer Carlson, 48 teens originally signed up to be jurors or attorneys for the program.

When court begins, 25 teens will serve as jurors and attorneys.

"We're in the process of training our volunteers right now," said Carlson.

In order to be eligible for the program, anyone accused of a crime must first admit his guilt. Teen court will handle cases involving those accused of crimes such as curfew violation, possession of alcohol or cannabis and criminal damage to property. All crimes must be misdemeanors. Offenders must take a three-hour track class, which focuses on decision-making skills. They are also sentenced to do things such as community service, attend drug and alcohol prevention programs or even write letters of apology for their crimes.

"I think it's an excellent program," said Carlson.

Teens who attend the court program will have the crime removed from their juvenile record if they successfully complete their sentence. According to Carlson, only 9 percent of those who choose teen court become repeat offenders, compared to the national average of 40 percent through the traditional justice system. A mock trial was held May 2 to prepare for the real sessions which will soon take place.

Teen court will be held on the third Tuesday of every month, and Carlson claimed the program is a big help to a court system which is becoming increasingly overcrowded. The trials will take place at the Antioch Police Department for juvenile offenders who have committed crimes in Antioch and Lindenhurst.

"We're real excited to bring this to Lake County," Carlson said. "It's just a really good chance for these kids to take responsibility for their actions."

Residents encouraged to leave food for letter carriers

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Saturday, May 13 is the day set for the eighth annual letter carriers' food drive.

This is the only nationwide food drive in which the food collected stays within the community.

In Antioch, this effort is sponsored by the National Rural Letter Carriers Association and the American Postal Workers Union.

Residents may donate non-perishable food items by placing them in a bag to hang from or place by the mailbox. When the mail is delivered, the letter carrier will collect the donations.

There will also be a donation hamper in the lobby of the new post office, located at 420 Orchard St. for those with post office boxes who wish to contribute.

Additionally, there will be a mail truck parked in front of the Jewel Food Store from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. for shoppers who might want to buy a little extra to help the cause.

Thanks to the generosity of Antioch residents, last year's drive netted 5,500 pounds of food for the local food pantry.

This year, the food collected will be divided up between three participating food banks—Antioch Food Bank located at United Methodist Church, Antioch Township Food Bank and St. Peter's Food Bank.

Food bank representatives say the need is just as great, or greater, during the summer months because children are out of school and not receiving school lunches.

Additionally, pantry shelves can run low due to the lack of awareness of the need for donations during the warmer months.

This nationwide food drive is held the second Saturday of each May. National co-sponsors include the U.S. Postal Service, the United Way, AFL-CIO, the UAW-Saturn Partnership and the Campbell Soup Company.

Pool passes prove summer is coming

It hardly seems possible that summer is right around the corner, but it is. With that, pool passes go on sale at the Parks Office at 874 Main St., on Monday, May 8.

The Antioch Aqua Center is located in Williams Park at 741 Main St., and will be open daily from Saturday, May 27 through Labor Day assuming the weather cooperates.

Individual resident season passes are $30. Passes for families of 4 are $100.

Don't forget that applications are due for the 2000 Miss and Little Miss Pageants on Friday, May 12 by 5 p.m., or postmarked by that date if mailed.

The pageant will take place on Saturday, June 24 at the Antioch High School North Gym at 6:30 p.m.

Eligibility is limited to Antioch residents in the 60002 zip code.

The Miss Pageant is for girls 16-21 years old. Contestants will model business, swim and evening wear, in addition to making a speech about something they feel is important.

OUR TOWN

Julie Murphy

The Little Miss Pageant is for girls 6-9 years old. They will model play wear and party dresses, and give a speech about their favorite toys.

There is a $10 application fee.

St. Peter's Class of 2000 members Joe Anderson, Michael Ano, Jenny Ano, Anthony DeFalco, Dan Garwood, Kate Korecek, James Larson, Bill Liniewicz, Ann McKinney, Jenny Michehl, Mike Morici, Kristin Nelson, Taylor Pechauer, Mary Petrosko, Alan Thain, Matt Thelen, and Brandon Ziemann want to thank Rep. Timothy Osmond (R-Antioch) for being so accommodating and giving them a guided tour of the Illinois State Capitol building during their recent trip to Springfield. The Lakes Area Community Band will be giving a free pre-summer concert this Sunday, May 7 at 3 p.m. at the Antioch Community High School. Park in the new parking lot on the south side of the building for the best access to the auditorium.

The concert will highlight big band music including Tuxedo Junction and Caravan, as well as a light selection of popular music performed by the Concert Band. Complimentary refreshments will be served after the concert.

The Antioch Arbor Day Celebration was proof that work doesn't have to be a 4-letter word. It can be made up of just three letters: f-u-n. Members of the Antioch Upper Grade National Junior Honor Society were enthusiastic workers. Abby Mistic's statement, "It's nice to give something back to the community," well reflects the sentiment of all who participated.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Julie Murphy at 223-8161, ext. 131 or e-mail, edit@ind.com."

Antioch to benefit from state funds

High school to receive money

By BRENDA BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

On April 21, State Rep. Timothy H. Osmond (R-Antioch), 62nd District, announced that through Member Community Initiatives from the State of Illinois 2000 budget, funds were secured for community projects for the Antioch community, among others in his district.

"The legislators are given money to be used as they see fit," Osmond explained. "There were a number of requests throughout the district. Townships, schools and villages submitted ideas for how to spend district money." About 25 different organizations asked for a share of the state money.

"This money comes from sales tax revenues," Osmond said. "It's not a fixed amount in the budget." The governor and state leaders decide how much money is to be distributed in any given year.

"This is money over and above funds for IDOT road improvements, grants from the EPA for sewers or money for industrial park development," the legislator said. He explained his own process for determining where the money should go.

"I could have put it all into one large project," he said. "Instead, I tried to distribute it through the district, using most of it for schools, social programs, and a little for construction."

Antioch Community High School will get $100,000 to be applied towards the $1.5 million project planned for renovating the school auditorium.

German-American Club hosts annual spring dance

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The German-American Club of Antioch will hold its annual spring dance on Saturday, May 13 at the Lake Villa VFW Hall at 130 E. Grand Ave.

Open to the public, this year's dance will feature the music of The Palona. Doors open at 6 p.m. The dance begins at 7 p.m. Sandwiches and refreshments will be available from 6:30-8 p.m.

"Our spring dance has been going on for at least 20 years," says Dorothy Jordahl, the club's treasurer. "I've been active in the club for 19 years myself."

Jordahl adds, "We always welcome new members. We're happy to have anyone who wants to join. Our group is not strictly German."

The German-American Club of Antioch is not affiliated with other German clubs. It affords those with common heritage and interests social opportunities.

Other upcoming events are a summer picnic and Octoberfest at the end of September.

Meetings are held regularly on the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall in Lake Villa on Rt. 132 behind Essinger's Hardware near the railroad tracks. Walk-ins are welcome.

Crime in Antioch down; drug arrests rise

Arrests in Antioch during 1999 declined or stayed the same, with the exception of drug arrests and arson, according to a report dated Feb. 2.

In the town of approximately 7,923 residents, the arrest rate declined 36.9 percent, with 77 arrests occurring in 1999 compared with 122 in 1998. There were no murder arrests in 1999, no robbery arrests, six burglary arrests (no change), three arson arrests (compared to zero in 1998), one motor vehicle theft arrest (down 66.7 percent) and 65 theft arrests (down 38.1 percent).

There were 64 total drug arrests in 1999 (up 8.5 percent), compared to 59 in 1998. The total arrest rate for 1999 was 971.9 per 100,000 residents (less than one percent), compared to 1,539 per 100,000 in 1998.

ZONING

"If something is set at three acres or five acres, then that becomes the threshold for all annexations," explains Silhan. "In some areas, one-acre zoning is more appropriate."

This provision will allow for land to be annexed under E-1 and require larger parcels than one acre when the Comprehensive Plan calls for it.

"We want to give residents a comfort level," said trustee Dorothy Larson.

"Please understand that this doesn't mean the Comprehensive Plan won't ever change, but if it is changed, it is subject to public hearing," said Village Attorney Kenneth Clark.

THE ONE

disturbing that both parents often have to work full-time to raise a family nowadays. The lack of attention by parents is damaging to many children today, according to Herman Behm.

"Everything costs so much they almost have to work," commented Edna Behm.

They mentioned that times have changed a great deal since they married nearly 60 years ago. Herman Behm stated that the advances in technology are amazing, yet he has no plans to adapt to the changing times.

"Computers?" he questioned. "I don't even know how to turn one on, and I don't intend to learn. I got along without one so far." He then recalled a time when the county was mostly farmland.

"I think it's terrible to see all this beautiful farmland go down the tube," he added. "The traffic is terrible. I can remember when we did most everything with horses," he said.

Both Edna and Herman Behm said if they had everything to do over, they would not change a thing. He did warn however, that people should take advantage of life while they are young.

"When you get older the time goes like hell," he said. "When you're young you don't even think about it."

The two then shared their secret to a successful marriage. As if they were reading each other's mind, they both gave the same response.

"Give and take," the couple said.

Herman and Edna Behm will celebrate their anniversary with a reception at Maravella's in Fox Lake.

determine precisely where the interest lies.

Wells explained that there are appropriate guidelines which need to be followed. He commended the group for having gone to the parks department and suggested that they follow up on the requests put forth by the parks department.

Trustee Lawrence Hanson pointed out that the group was here seeking guidance from adults who could help them, stressing their ages and inexperience.

"It's not just that we want a skate park. We do, but we bike or board down the street and boom—the cops pull us over," said Nielsen.

"We want to help. It's just that it's going to take some time for us to be able to help," said Shineflug.

Trustee Wayne Foresta suggested that the board revisit the ordinance regulating the use of bicycles, skateboards and skates and get the information out to the public so that everyone knows what the laws are.

Village attorney Kenneth Clark looked up ordinance 92-8-19 and read from it.

Section 72.025 says, "...No bicycles shall be operated upon sidewalks in the central business district area, such central district area to include Orchard St., from Hillside to Main St.; on Main St., from Wilton St. to Depot; and on Lake St., from Hillside to Main St."

In section 72.039 the ordinance says, "...No persons shall at any time operate or ride any skating device on the sidewalks of Orchard St., from Hillside to Main St.; on Main St., from Wilton St. to Depot; and on Lake St., from Hillside to Main St.

"...Any person on skates on a roadway shall obey the instruction of official traffic signals and signs unless otherwise directed by a police officer."

"No person shall at any time operate or ride on a skateboard on any public or private road or public or private parking lot, nor shall any person ride a skateboard on the side walks of Orchard St., from Hillside to Main St.; on Main St., from Wilton St. to Depot; and on Lake St., from Hillside to Main St. An operator of a skateboard shall only be allowed to operate on a private road or private parking lot with the written consent of the owner," according to section 72.040.

The board discussed looking into the differences, and the reasons for them, between Section 72.039 and Section 72.040.

Other topics to revisit in the future include the possibility of developing a park district which could tax property to raise money for this and other outdoor activities.

"This issue was put to the voters of the township as a whole on or about 1988... and it was turned down on a township-wide basis," said Shineflug.

POLICE BEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

DUI

David A. McGinnis, 43, of 40449 Savage Rd. in Antioch, was arrested on April 30 at 8:57 p.m. for driving under the influence of alcohol on Rt. 173 and Harden St. He sped away from the spotlight at Rt. 59 and Rt. 173 and crossed the center line three times before being stopped at Harden St. Police report McGinnis had no insurance. He has a court date of May 9 at 9 a.m. in Waukegan.

Deborah A. Spahn, 33, of 27205 93rd St. in Salem, Wis., was arrested on April 30 at 5:06 a.m. for driving under the influence of alcohol in the 700 block of Lake St. The red Pontiac Grand Am she had been driving was stopped in the middle of both lanes of traffic. It was facing east but was blocking the westbound lane as well. Spahn was passed out in the driver's seat with the keys in the ignition and the head lamps on. The two front tires were flat and off the rims.

Police report that the tires were hot to the touch and some of the rubber had melted on the rim. Police attempted to wake Spahn using verbal commands and knocking on the driver's window with no response. She was also issued citations for having a suspended driver's license. She has a court date of June 6 at 9 a.m. in Waukegan.

No valid license

Jose T. Carrasco, 23, of 510 S. Hickory in Mundelein, was arrested on April 26 at 5:20 p.m. for driving without a valid driver's license on Anita and Prairie Scene. Carrasco was pulled over for speeding and could not produce a driver's license or proof of insurance. Police ran his identifiers through LEADS/NCIC via dispatch. Carrasco was brought through booking procedures and released on a personal recognizance bond pending court date, which is scheduled for June 14 at 9 a.m. in Grayslake.

James A. Robertson, 29, of 300 Park Ave. in Antioch, was arrested on April 26 at 1:18 a.m. for driving without a valid driver's license on the 1100 block of Main St. Robertson was pulled over for straddling the center line and then weaving back into his traffic lane. He was unable to produce his license and his identifiers were checked through LEADS/SOS and found to have a suspended driver's license. Robertson was brought through booking procedures and released on the proper bond. He has a court date of May 24 in Grayslake.

LAKE VILLA

DUI

Daniel K. Redig, 36, of 708 Franklin in Lindenhurst, was stopped on April 30 at 3:03 a.m. on Rte. 83 and Grass Lake Rd. after Lake Villa Police spotted his 1995 blue Corvette swerving and weaving over the center line and onto the shoulder of the road. The officer noticed alcohol on Redig's breath. The driver produced a driver's license and insurance. He refused to take any field sobriety tests, and at the police station, he refused to take a breath test. Redig was charged with improper lane usage, improper turning, and DUI alcohol. He was released on a personal recognizance bond, and his license was confiscated. His court date is May 26 at 9 a.m. in Waukegan courtroom 402.

Suspended license

Derek A. Herdrick, 20, of 38438 Columbia Bay Rd. in Lake Villa, was charged with driving without valid registration, driving on a suspended license, and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. Lake Villa Police charged him at the scene of an accident on April 27 at 3:58 p.m. on Rte. 132 west of Rte. 83. Herdrick's car rear-ended another car, driving it into a third car on Rte. 132. The car in front was stopped in traffic, the car behind it was slowing to a stop, and Herdrick's car did not stop, as he headed westbound. There was some property damage, but no serious injuries. Herdrick was released pending a court appearance at Branch III on June 14, at 1:30 p.m.

Invalid driver's license

Steven J. Stouffer, 25, of 354 Devonshire in Park City, was stopped by a Lake Villa Police officer who noticed that Stouffer's Honda motorcycle had no registration. The driver pulled into the Neilsen lot on Rte. 83. He stated that he had no driver's license on his person. When asked for proof of insurance, he said that he lives in Wisconsin and doesn't need insurance. When asked for registration for the motorcycle, he produced a purchase contract from Ace Powersports in Kenosha, Wis. showing an address at 13-Apt. 3 St. Thomas, Fox Lake, Ill. When asked for ID, he produced a valid Ill. ID card with his Park City address on it.

Antioch dispatch showed a $10,000 warrant from Waukegan for a traffic offense for Stouffer, and a Lake County no-bond warrant for fraud. His license had been revoked on March 6, 1998. It was also determined that Stouffer has been using three different social security numbers. He was taken into custody and turned over to the Lake County Sheriff. He was allowed to leave his vehicle on the Neilsen's lot, where he was headed when he was stopped. Lake Villa Police charged Stouffer with driving with no valid registration, no insurance and a revoked license. His court date for those offenses is June 14 at 1:30 p.m. at Branch III.

Irineo J. Mora, 30, of 147 Cedar Ave. in Lake Villa, was stopped by Lake Villa Police on Rte. 132 and Fairfield Rd. on April 29 at 6:50 p.m. After checking with Antioch dispatch, the officer determined that the driver was unlicensed and uninsured. Mora was charged with both offenses. His court date is June 14 at 3 p.m. at Grayslake Branch III.

Allan J. Manders, 25, of 65 W. Grand Ave. in Lake Villa, was observed by Lake Villa Police on April 24 at 6:36 a.m. at Rte. 132 and Cedar Lake. The officer, familiar with Manders, knew his license was suspended. Manders' vehicle was towed, he was charged with driving on a suspended license, and released on an I-bond. His court appearance is scheduled for May 10 at 1:30 p.m. at Branch III.

LINDENHURST

Possession of cannabis

A 17-year-old Lindenhurst male was arrested on April 29 at 8 p.m. and charged with possession of cannabis. A Lindenhurst police officer, responded to a complaint about three teenagers loitering near Game Escape at Waterford Commons. At the rear of the strip mall, he found three males. The officer observed that one of them was moving his hand in and out of his right front pocket "in an unusual manner."

The male, later identified as the offender, said that the pocket held a lighter and a "pack of smokes." The officer found a rolled-up clear plastic bag, containing a green leafy substance, allegedly four or five grams of cannabis. He was released on an I-bond pending a court appearance on June 7 at 10:30 a.m. in Grayslake.

Suspended license

Robert J. Lehnhoff, 33, of Lake Villa, was arrested on April 30 at 5:55 a.m. when a Lindenhurst police officer ran the plates on his black Buick as it was waiting at a stop sign at Grand Ave. and Munn Rd. The license came back listed as suspended. The driver produced proof of insurance and a traffic ticket, in lieu of a license. He stated that he was unaware of the license suspension. He was released on an I-bond of $1,000 pending court appearance on June 7 at 1:30 p.m. in Grayslake.

Dog at large

A complaint was made against Jacob M. Miszewski, 20, of 2011 Old Elm Rd. in Lindenhurst, when his two pit bulls allegedly attacked a German Shepherd on the 2100 block of Woodlane. The complainant stated that the pit bulls ran out of the property at 2011 Old Elm Rd. He stated that he struggled to get his dog free from the pit bulls, falling to the ground, as cars stopped to avoid the melee in the middle of the road. The pit bulls continued to bite the shepherd on the head and tail. Miszewski was not at home, but his mother accepted the Notice to Appear on the charge of having an animal at large. The court date is June 7 at 10:30 a.m. in Grayslake.

Property damage

During a routine business check on April 20 at 10:04 p.m., a Lindenhurst police officer found a broken window on the west side of 2425 Harbor Ridge. The building is the location of the New Generation Child Care Center. The officer discovered a rock on the ground. The interior storm window was not broken. The key holder was called and arrived at the premises at 10:15 p.m. He told police that there was no damage to the window when he left the premises on Friday afternoon. There are no suspects.

Theft

A Lindenhurst woman reported to police that money was taken from her bank account through the use of her ATM/Visa card. When her mortgage check was returned for insufficient funds, she made inquiries. The bank informed her that more than $1495 had been taken from her account during the period from April 21-25. The woman claims that she had not used her card for two weeks. She alleges that her live-in boyfriend, who is not authorized to use the account, may have taken her card from her handbag and used it. She canceled the card. No arrest has been made.

Lakes Area Community Band offers concert

Concert Band, Big Band to perform

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Lakes Area Community Band (LACB) is truly a community band. The band is a volunteer effort, members are local, and the concerts—generally 8 per year—are all free. In return, the community, particularly Festival Arts of Antioch, supports the band. There are no fees to band members.

LACB's pre-summer concert will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 7 at the Antioch Community High School. The new parking lot on the south side of the building offers easy access to the auditorium.

The concert will begin by showcasing pieces such as Tuxedo Junction and Caravan from the Big Band. This is a new band within LACB.

The Concert Band will follow up with selections from "The Sound of Music," a march by John Philip Sousa, and Bugler's Holiday.

Debbie Gillette, choir director and organist for the United Methodist Church in Antioch, will perform a piano solo by Debussy to add to the day's entertainment. Complimentary refreshments will be served after the concert.

Originally formed in 1989 by Tom Erlenborn, previous owner of Lakes Area Music Center in Antioch, the band continues on strong under the musical direction of Steve Porch.

Porch's considerable experience and credentials, including his appointment to Principal Pianist at Buckingham Palace and his time spent as Senior Director of Music for Sitmar Cruises, add world class flair to this local band.

The Big Band is new to the Lakes Area Community Band. It is a band within a band, but also includes a couple of members from outside LACB.

"The Big Band was the idea of my assistant director, Holly Frederichs," said Porch. "She came to me with this idea of performing big band songs and took off with it."

Frederichs, a Lake Villa resident, began playing clarinet in the sixth grade in Des Plaines where she grew up. She continued on throughout high school and on to Northeastern University with a double major in music and secondary education, though was unable to finish her degree due to insufficient scholarship funds.

Frederichs hopes to go back some day and finish her degree. Meanwhile, she is enjoying her time as second clarinet, assistant director to Porch and as conductor of the LACB Big Band. She and her husband, Mike, are expecting their first child.

LACB is open to junior high students through adults. No auditions are required. The band rehearses weekly at the Antioch Community High School on Monday at 7 p.m.

Robert Schmelzer, the band's president, reports that additional events for the band include the Fourth of July Celebration just prior to the fireworks show in Williams Park; the First Annual Mega-Fest (formerly Taste of Antioch) on Sunday, July 23, the inauguration of the new band shell on Saturday, August 5, and a concert at the band shell on August 27.

High school students awarded scholarships

Antioch Community High School's Sequoit Pride organization has awarded scholarships to students who will attend the Presidential Classroom or World Affairs seminars this summer.

Sequoit Pride has agreed to match funds with the Antioch Rotary Club, and selected juniors Nick Doward and Kristen Jensen to attend the Presidential Classroom seminar in Washington, D.C. June 10-16. The two will be able to experience American Government "first-hand" by spending time on the floor of Congress, conversing with ambassadors and attending other committee planning sessions.

Andrew Eisen, Lauren Reynolds and Rebecca Rico were selected to attend the World Affairs seminar June 11-16, at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater. They will meet with students from all 50 states and over 100 countries in order to share knowledge about world governments. This will allow the three to compare and contrast ideas concerning world peace by spending time in discussion groups, having debates and attending seminars.

The Lake Villa Township Lions Club has also supported the World Affairs seminar by paying for one of the students to attend.

"It's very rewarding and gratifying for the members of Sequoit Pride, as well as the scholarship recipients, when opportunities such as Presidential Classroom and the World Affairs seminar are made possible through a true community partnership," said Sherill Tripp, president of Sequoit Pride.

Spring dance to be held

The German-American Club of Antioch will hold its annual spring dance on Saturday, May 13 at the Lake Villa VFW Hall at 130 E. Grand Ave. Open to the public, this year's dance will feature the music of The Palona. Doors open at 6 p.m. The dance begins at 7 p.m. Sandwiches and refreshments will be available from 6:30-8 p.m.

"Our spring dance has been going on for at least 20 years," says Dorothy Jordahl, the club's treasurer. "I've been active in the club for 19 years myself."

Jordahl adds, "We always welcome new members. We're happy to have anyone who wants to join. Our group is not strictly German."

The German-American Club of Antioch is not affiliated with other German clubs. It affords those with common heritage and interests social opportunities.

Other upcoming events are a summer picnic and Oktoberfest at the end of September.

Meetings are held regularly on the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall in Lake Villa on Rt. 132 behind Essinger's Hardware near the railroad tracks. Walk-ins are welcome.

Teen karaoke contest scheduled

Teens who can sing are invited to join the America's Teen Singer Search this May. Winners from area competitions will have the opportunity to perform in Nashville in late July and possibly win $2,000.

The contest is locally sponsored by Horsin' Around Karaoke in Ingleside and Bellini's Italian Restaurant in Libertyville. Interested contestants must sign up at Bellini's, located at Rtes. 21 and 137, by May 5. The contest starts Sunday, May 7 and runs every consecutive Sunday through May.

Four semi-finalists will be selected each day of the contest and will compete May 28 for $100 in cash and prizes. Second place is $50 and third place wins $25. Each night of the event, a $5 cover charge at the door will go to benefit the Grayslake Save-A-Pet animal shelter.

Birdwatching in the Bahamas

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

I recently was made aware of the growing number of "birdwatchers". Even my sister, a long time, downtown Chicago resident, is among them. Yes, there are birds to be found even in the most urban areas.

I also found it interesting that in their quest to add more and more species to the list of birds they have observed, 10 times as many birdwatchers than honeymooners, travel each year.

That definitely interested me, so I did some research as to where they travel. I found that the islands of the Bahamas offer birdwatchers the opportunity to view as many as 28 different species of birds they won't find anywhere else. Additionally, there are a number of "bird walks" offered which tour the habitats of these birds.

These birding tours range from a casual walk through the countryside to a week long scientific count of migrating birds.

A good place to start would be The Retreat in Nassau, which is the headquarters of the Bahamas National Trust. A free two-hour, naturalist-led birdwatching tour is offered on the first Saturday of each month.

A fun way to find birds is by kayak or bicycle. Both tours are offered by Pedal & Paddle Ecoventures Ltd. in Nassau. For about $50 a person you get a half day tour by bike or kayak.

For the more athletic, Kayak Nature Tours offers a 5 hour kayak trip, for about $75, to Water Cay, the only inhabited island off the north shore of Grand Bahamas Island. This trip does involve some strenuous paddling.

East End Adventures offers a bird watching journey by jeep to the deserted end of Grand Bahamas Island which includes lunch on the beach. Cost is about $100.

If you do vacation in Nassau, at the very least, you've got to visit Ardastra Gardens. There you will find an old Bahamian gentleman who has dedicated his whole life to training flamingos how to march. West Point has nothing on these birds as they march in columns and respond to their trainers commands.

The really birdwatcher would, however, want to visit Great Inagua cay to visit the world's largest populations (60,000) of West Indian flamingos.

If you're already an avid birdwatcher, or if you think you may want to give this growing hobby a try, the Bahamas deserve a visit.

Youth group holds plant sale

Nowadays when teens are getting so much bad publicity, it's nice to be able to report about a group of teens in our own little hometown that have given new hope for the next generation. Last year, the teens from the St. Peter Parish Youth Group came up with the idea to hold a plant sale to generate a little revenue for their group. They started out with a small greenhouse in someone's backyard and managed to cultivate quite a few healthy-looking plants which they sold one weekend on the grounds behind the church. Well, this year, with higher expectations, and a lot more sweat and labor, they decided to tackle the project of building their own greenhouse behind the church.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

They not only built a grand greenhouse from scratch, but they spent a good portion of the winter potting, re-potting, watering, fertilizing and caring for their growing seedlings. So with a lot of hard work, these dedicated teens saw their idea blossom like the blooms they so tenderly nurtured all winter. And now, with the greenhouse bursting at its seams, there is nothing left to do but to sell all their plants and reap their harvest. So on Saturday and Sunday, May 6 and 7, the St. Peter Youth Group will be holding their annual plant sale on the grounds behind the church.

Some of the things they will have on hand are geraniums for $3; spider plants for $7.50, and small hanging strawberries from 50 cents to $3. They will have patio pot tomatoes for $10 and hanging baskets from $10 to $25. Also waiting to be bought by your garden enthusiasts are impatiens, petunias, begonias, nasturtiums, salvia, verbena, pansies, snapdragons, marigolds, morning glories and mini sunflowers, all starting at $1.50 each.

Also on hand will be hot and bell peppers, large herbs, and tomatoes. There will be a great selection of healthy, hardy plants to add to your summer garden. So stop out any time before or after all the masses this weekend at St. Peter Catholic Church, 557 W. Lake St. at the intersection of Rtes. 173 and 59 (Saturday 5-6:30 p.m. and Sunday 7 a.m.-12:30 p.m.), and show your support to a great bunch of young adults who are channeling their energy in a very positive way.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Summer conservation jobs offered for teenagers

Do you know a Lake County teenager who is looking for rewarding summertime employment? Youths between the ages of 16 and 18 who are available between June 12 and Aug. 4, can apply now for jobs with the Lake County Forest Preserves' Youth Conservation Corps (YCC).

On May 13 at 19 a.m., the YCC job lottery will be held at Half Day Forest Preserve near Vernon Hills to draw names of the applicants who will receive the summer positions. Applications will be accepted up until the time of the lottery drawing which begins at 10 a.m. The drawing will take place at Half Day's Shelter C.

Applicants need not be present to be awarded a position. However, alternates will be selected only from those present at the drawing. Winning applicants will be notified by May 22. Applications are also available and are being accepted at the Forest Preserve general offices at 2000 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville through May 11.

YCC positions offer rewarding summer employment. Outdoor work experiences are combined with 40 hours of environmental education to develop an understanding of and an appreciation for the environment. Students receive training in basic first aid, conservation practices, construction techniques and the proper use of hand tools.

For the past 26 years, the Youth Conservation Corps has helped hundreds of young men and women gain work skills while learning about the environment and enhancing Forest Preserves throughout Lake County. Donations are the sole source of the youths' salaries for the summer conservation job program. Donations are the sole source of the youths' salaries for the summer conservation job program. Major corporate supporters include Abbott Laboratories, Allegiance Healthcare Corporation and Motorola. Contributions of all levels from businesses, foundations and in individuals are needed and appreciated. A goal of $146,000 to fund 55 positions has been set for 2000. A donation of $2,500 supports each position.

Half Day Forest Preserve is located on Milwaukee Ave. (Route 21) south of Rte. 60 near Vernon Hills. For more information on the drawing, job applications, or donating to the YCC program, call David White, YCC assistant program manager, at 968-3406.

Three of a kind

Since joining the Fox Valley four years ago, the Grayslake varsity football team enjoyed its most successful in posting a 4-5 record.

Well, three instrumental pieces in the Rams puzzle will carry their skills elsewhere starting next fall.

Quarterback Willie Wright has committed to the University of Chicago where he will be playing football as well as baseball. Wright was voted Most Valuable Player by his teammates is also the co-valedictorian of his class.

A two-year varsity starter on the Rams football and baseball teams, Wright also received news that he was selected as one of the 10 Chicagoland Outstanding Scholar/Athletes by the Chicago Metro Chapter of the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame. Recipients of the award will be honored at an awards dinner Wednesday, May 10 at Navy Pier and will receive a $750 scholarship.

"I have coach Dillon to thank," said Wright. "He nominated me for the award and I'm really excited about being selected. Coach has been very helpful to me and my parents during the whole recruiting process."

Dick Maloney, head football coach at Chicago said, "The University of Chicago is one of America's great universities and Willie's outstanding classroom work, superior athletic ability and his wonderful personal qualities make him an ideal fit for Chicago."

Wright will be joining a football program that has won over 60 percent of its games in the past six years, including a University Athletic Association title in 1998.

Grayslake athletic director and head football coach Dan Dillon added, "Willie was undoubtedly a catalyst for any success we had on both sides of the football this past season."

Wright is currently ranked first in a class of 336, was an All-Fox Valley, all-state academic team and Lakeland all-area selection in 1999.

He is the proud son of Mike and Dawn Wright.

And joining Wright in playing college ball is Ryan Feeney, who has committed to Augustana College where he will also be playing both football and baseball. Feeney was voted Most Valuable Offensive Lineman by his teammates for the 1999 season. Feeney currently leads the Rams baseball team with a .353 batting average. He has two round-trippers and nine RBIs.

Feeney's parent's are Tim and Linda.

Kicker Chris Ehresman will also get to showcase his talents in the college ranks, as he will be competing for a kicking position at Illinois Wesleyan next fall.

Ehresman broke three school records for the Rams during the 1999 season, including the longest field-goal (41 yards), most field-goals in a game (three), and most PATs in a season. His talents helped the Rams have one of their most competitive seasons since joining the Fox Valley four years ago.

"We're really proud of all three athletes," added Dillon, who resigns as athletic director effective the end of the school year but will continue to coach varsity football. "It's really tremendous for our program."

Silver lining in sight for Lady Sequoit softball

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

There's a silver lining in just about everything. Unfortunately, heavy soul-searching might be the prerequisite.

Now while the Antioch varsity girls softball team is going through some rocky times where the win column is concerned, one element worthy of a high grade is character.

Wins have been hard to come by but if Saturday's final game in the round-robin Buffalo Grove tournament is any indication, that silver lining isn't too far around the corner.

That's because cohesiveness and productivity were at a premium as the Lady Sequoits picked up their fifth victory of the season, an 8-0 drubbing over Highland Park.

"We had big-time support for Abbey and the defense was excellent," said assistant coach Jeff Moxley. "We put together some hits and walks. It made for a fun game."

Thomas, the Sequoits ace, improved to 4-11 on the year after tossing five innings of five-hit ball with four strikeouts.

Kristin Elstrom picked up the save after firing no-hit ball over the final two innings.

And the offense was in high gear to the tune of 14 hits.

Megs Kotlarz had the hot bat, going 4-for-4 with three RBI and a run scored. Laura Weber (2-for-3, double, RBI, run scored), Crystal Massimo (2-for-3, three runs scored), and Amanda Pollitt (2-for-4) also played instrumental roles offensively.

On the defensive, Moxley said infielder Katie Birk was outstanding, turning two unassisted double plays.

In the second game, Antioch (5-18, 2-4) fell to host Buffalo Grove 12-2. Elstrom suffered the pitching loss, giving up 11 hits and two earned runs while fanning four Bison.

Pollitt went 2-for-3 with a run scored and Kotlarz and Weber posted 2-for-3 efforts.

"The sticks came alive and we hit the ball well," said Moxley. "We just couldn't produce the timely hits when we needed them."

In the opening round of the tournament, the Sequoits played even with Loyola for six innings before falling, 4-0. In the sixth, Loyola's first batter reached on an error. Three singles later, the Ramblers found themselves ahead for good at 3-0.

"After the first batter reached base, that kind of opened the floodgates for them (Loyola)," noted Moxley. "We played great defense but couldn't put it together with the sticks."

Kotlarz paced the offense with a 2-for-3 performance. Thomas pitched well, surrendering only five hits while fanning four.

Antioch hosts Warren in double-header action Wednesday, May 10 at 4:30 p.m. at Williams Park in Antioch.

A special ceremony will take place in between games. Julie Sexton, a 1987 graduate of Antioch Community High School, will be inducted into the school's Athletic Hall of Fame. Sexton was a three-sport athlete for the Sequoits and was voted the 1987 Senior Girl Athlete. Sexton went on to play softball at Northern Illinois University where she won several North Star Conference and All-American awards. Following college, Julie played on numerous USA Softball National Teams, achieving more All-American recognition's. She was drafted to play professional softball in 1997 by the Durham Dragons and was picked to be team co-captain for the 1998 season.

Lady Sequoit soccer cruises to tourney title

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The Antioch varsity girls soccer team continued its stellar season by winning the title in its own tournament over the weekend.

The Sequoits, who improved to 10-3-2 overall, downed Hersey 4-2 in the title game. Emily Niles scored two goals and Kristen Gamlin and Lauren Hungarland tallied the others.

Winning goalie Erin Hall, the tournament MVP, stopped five shots en route to the victory.

"She did an excellent job," said head coach Charlie Trout. "She made several big saves throughout the tournament, especially in the shootout win over Nathan Hale (Wis.) where she had three terrific saves. And Jordan Phillips did a great job of marking their (Hersey's) leading scorer. She hardly let her touch the ball."

Against Nathan Hale, the game was deadlocked at 1-1 heading into the shootout. That's when, after seven attempts, Gamlin blasted one in for the 2-1 victory.

In the semifinal, Antioch handled York 5-2. Gamlin and Lauren Cole each scored twice while Niles added the other as the hosts jumped to a 4-2 advantage at intermission.

Hall was again the winning keeper, stopping four shots.

"We had great balance with a lot of different people scoring," added Trout.

Niles, Gamlin, Phillips, Hall and Katianna Pechauer were all named to the all-tournament team.

The winning ways continued for Antioch after Tuesday's 9-0 rout over Rockford Jefferson. Niles tallied three goals, Cole and Becky Dellaria two, and Robin Mortenson and Gamlin one apiece as the hosts recorded over 30 shots on goal.

Sequoits net Plinske 50th coaching victory

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

Antioch boys and girls head tennis coach Bryan Plinske earned his 50th career victory in nine combined coaching seasons at Antioch (five boys and four girls).

Plinske did so with a 4-1 win over Grant on Monday.

The Sequoits ran away early with 6-0, 6-0 victories by Magnus Boesen at number one singles, Jason Love (who improved his season record to 17-3) at number two singles and by Jim Gramhofer and Jason Darfler at number three singles.

Nick Kidric and Dan O'Connell also won a number two doubles 6-0, 6-1.

However, they lost their bid for a shutout as Jordan Nobler and Buzz Leffelman lost a close match at number three doubles 4-6, 6-7 in Leffelman's varsity debut.

"(Buzz) did a fine job," said Plinske.

Also, the win gave Antioch nine on the season, breaking their school record of eight. It also assured them of an above .500 season for just the second time in school history.

However, the real story was Plinske's 50th victory.

"It feels good," said Plinske. "I can't believe (nine) seasons have gone by."

"It feels like I started yesterday," he added.

Malec pitches gem but showdown goes to Mustangs

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The playoff atmosphere was definitely at a premium Tuesday afternoon in Mundelein as Antioch's varsity baseball team mixed it up with the NSC leading Mustangs.

First-place and supremacy, at least for now, were all on the line.

Sophomore pitcher Chris Malec (5-1) fired a two-hit gem with nine strikeouts against the potent Mundelein offense.

Unfortunately, one of those hits resulted in two runs that ultimately led to a 3-1 Mundelein victory.

"For a sophomore to pitch like that in a game of this magnitude, what more can you ask for," said head coach Paul Petty. "He pitched one of the best games of the year for us. He did an excellent job holding a potent offense like Mundelein to only two hits."

Antioch scored in the top of the first when Tim Clutter led off with a double and later scored on a wild pitch.

From there, Malec and Mundelein ace Kyle Zaleski put on a show as both teams could only muster four total hits the rest of the way.

Zaleski wound up with eight strikeouts while improving his record to 8-0.

The Sequoits (19-4, 5-2) had a chance to break a 1-1 tie in the top of the fifth inning. Brad Groth led off with a walk and promptly stole second. After Joe Finkleberg struck out, Clutter laced a shot to second and and Mundelein doubled up Groth, who was heading for third after and apparent base hit.

But Mundelein's Chris Hynes provided all of the offense Mundelein (23-2, 7-0) would need. Hynes' RBI single in the bottom of the third tied the game at 1-1 and it was his two-run single in the bottom of the fifth frame that provided the final margin of victory.

Another stellar season unfolding for Lakers basketball

The Lakeland Lakers eighth-grade travel basketball team played seven games in two tournaments and came home with first place in both tournaments. First, the Lakers beat a field of 16 at the All-American Cage Classic in Racine, Wis. followed by a title at the 20-team North American Youth Classic in Lake Geneva. To date, the Lakers have a 24-2 record that already includes six tournament titles and two second-place finishes. With the victory at the All-American Cage Classic, the Lakers qualified for the national tournament in July.

At Racine, Wis., the Lakers won four straight games to claim first place. Guard Julian Lott scored 13 and forward Ivan Turner added 11 as the Lakers beat host Racine, Wis. 53-43 in game one. Eric Studdard grabbed nine rebounds and scored three points and center Eric Viernesel scoring seven points to go along with six rebounds.

In the semi-final game, the Lakers faced the Green Bay Flyers, a team that had previously beaten them in three overtimes at the AAU Great Lakes shootout. But this time the Lakers led from start to finish in prevailing 62-47.

Turner scored 10 points and grabbed five rebounds. Viernesel added nine points and had 11 rebounds. Guard Marcus Ruskin scored nine points, had six rebounds and collected five steals. Guard Alex Morrison had a great defensive game with six steals and forcing eight turnovers. In the title game, the Lakers cruised past Kenosha 63-46 as Julian Lott led all scorers with 25. Turner scored 12 and Morrison added 10. Forward Justin Jonekis scored seven points and grabbed 11 rebounds and Alex Morrison scored nine points and had five steals.

Turning to Lake Geneva, the Lakers averaged 62 points per game and claimed their sixth tournament title this season. The Lakers downed Cary Grove in the opening game 67-35 as Guard Julian Lott led all scorers with 16. His back court mate, Alex Morrison, scored 12 and had five steals. Forward Eric Studdard scored eight points and grabbed nine rebounds.

In the semi-final game, it was again Lott who led all scorers with 16 as the Lakers crushed Dundee-Crown, 61-47. Center Eric Viernesel scored nine points, grabbed 12 rebounds and had six blocked shots. The Lakers got a 24-point performance from Lott in the title game as they stopped the Illinois Jammers, 53-38. Mundelein's Matt Corning scored 13 points and grabbed 10 rebounds and Alex Morrison chipped in seven points to go along with six steals. Morrison also forced five turnovers on defense.

The Lakers have qualified for four National Championship tournaments. The team is averaging 57 points per game while holding opponents to a 40.5 game point average. The team won National titles in 1998 and last year and has six National titles to their credit.

The Lakers then traveled to Northern Wisconsin to compete in the AAU Great Lakes shootout where all-star teams from Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois competed in the two three-day event. When all was said and done, the Lakers shared first-place with two other teams as three of the 24 had identical records in pool play.

The Lakers played one of their best games of the season crushing Racine, Wis. 82-40. All 10 players got into the scoring column with guard Julian Lott leading the way with 22 points. Forward Ivan Turner added 18 points and seven rebounds and center Eric Viernesel added 11 points and 10 boards.

In the title game, the Lakers rebounded from a second-round loss to post a 63-47 win over Minneapolis, Minn. Lott was the high scorer with 16 points while Turner added 15. Jonekis scored 13 points, grabbed eight rebounds and dished out four assists. Forward Eric Studdard scored seven points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Marcus Ruskin scored six points but played an excellent defensive game with nine rebounds, and five steals.

Travelers undefeated in league play

The Lake Villa traveling 11-year-old team improved to 6-0 with strong wins over Richmond (13-4), Woodstock (18-9) and Cary (15-0). During LV's first six games, the offense has been clicking on all cylinders in averaging 12 runs per game.

The Travelers headed to Richmond to complete in the Wolf Pac Prime Time Tournament. The boys advanced to the championship game with three convincing wins over Richmond (15-7), Elk Grove Village (12-3) and the Lake County Chiefs (12-7). Jake Cobb, Sean Hertz, Carl Stream and Steve Klein, all of whom contributed four or more hits during the tournament, led the offense.

LV was matched up against a strong McHenry team in the championship game only to come out on the short end of a well-played game, 4-2. Stream and Hertz turned in excellent pitching performances. Not to be outdone, McHenry's pitchers held LV's bats to four hits while yielding zero walks.

The Traveler's record improved to 5-0 as they downed the Richmond Wolfpac 13-4. Sean Hertz went four innings on the mound, striking out 6.

Zach Amrein finished the game with 3 solid innings. Billy Battistone and Danny Sheridan also turned in solid defensive performances. Jake Cobb (3-4) led the attack at the plate with Amrein, Battistone, Sheridan, Matt Limbert and Jimmy Humphrey all collecting hits of their own.

soaring collage of metalwork in a clerestory. A stream of books, magazines, CDs and video tapes flying in a scattered formation above a lobby. A little boy, who flies through the sky, fueled by pixie dust. These flights of imagination, depicted by three Lake County artists, will be highlighted at a special presentation at the Lake Villa District Library, 1001 East Grand Ave., later this month.

The event is one of a series of evenings featuring local artists whose work has become part of the permanent collection on display at the library. At the May 11 event, three artists will show slides and samples of their work, and discuss their conceptual and creative processes.

"We started the search for art for the library last summer," said Administrative Services Coordinator Andy Mazzuca. She described the selection process. "The art committee of eight board and staff members reviewed slides submitted by the artists, and picked a Half a century of 'pull my finger'

Once in a while, besides giving you the occasional chuckle, I feel compelled by Oprah to, as she would say, "Use My Life." I also feel compelled by Oprah to sing Tina Turner songs out of key. And sometimes, I think I AM Oprah, but that's really not your concern.

The record, in this instance, has to do with the age of my husband and his siblings, particularly his brother. Let me begin with the facts, at least those I can reveal without fear of losing an occasional willing babysitter:

1. Sandy is the firstborn sibling (sorry...giving actual age information on a fellow female, especially one who sometimes baby-sits, is forbidden).

2. Danny, who just TURNED 50 ON MAY 3rd, is the second oldest (I have nothing to lose—he never baby-sits).

3. Mr. Bear is six years younger than Danny is.

Now, this would not seem like such a big deal, if people weren't constantly mistaking my husband as "the older brother." Considering the large age difference, this is a real sore point with Mr. Bear, especially when his brother practically bursts with glee each time. Not only that, but for the rest of the day, and sometimes the week, Danny makes sure that Mr. Bear gets to re-live the annoyance, over and over, with each and every person they come in contact with:

Danny, to strangers passing by: Hey, you...what's your name?
Stranger: Joe.

Danny: Nice to meet you, Joe...and this is my OLDER brother! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! Who's that there with you?

Stranger: My buddy Ralph.

Danny: How ya doin' Ralph? I'm Dan, and this is my OLDER brother! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! What's your dog's name?

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

Stranger: Barf.

Danny: C'mere, Barf. My OLDER brother likes dogs, too! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!

I can't really explain why people think my husband is the older brother. Maybe it's because he's taller, or because he began to lose his hair at a younger age. Or it could be because although Danny is now 50 and a GRANDFATHER, he behaves pretty much the same as he did when he was a teenager. For instance, here's Danny at a typical family gathering:

Danny: Hey, kid...pull my finger. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!

Not only does he act like a teenager, he eats like a teenager. I'm surprised they don't have "Wanted for Piggling Out" posters, featuring his picture, hanging in each of the county's "All You Can Eat" restaurants. I say this because his favorite pastime is trying to eat so many plates of food that the restaurant owner asks him to leave. Again.

Not to mention that Danny's lovely wife, Marianne, is at least twelve years younger than he is, which could perhaps explain his behavior. Or maybe it's because, as Marianne jokes, "He's just your typical three year old."

Anyhow, whatever the reason for people's confusion, it is time for the shoe to be on the other foot. When Danny turned 50 recently, making him a bonafide AARP member, I was trying to think of a good way to needle him about his age. I thought of approaching everyone at the restaurant where his party was held and saying loudly, "Look...over there! It's my husband's OLDER brother. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha."

But I figured that might be going a little overboard. Besides, as the old saying goes, "What goes around, comes around."

And I think it just did.

'Zion Chamber Orchestra closes its season

Zion Chamber Orchestra closes its season with "Pops in 3/4 Time," Saturday, May 13. This free concert is a light-hearted spring evening featuring a variety of waltzes and other musical gems of a triple meter nature. You're sure to recognize popular selections by composers such as Mozart, Strauss, Tchaikovsky, Rogers and Hammerstein and others. There is no reserved seating and no tickets are necessary. Doors will be open at 7:30 p.m., located at Christian Arts Auditorium, 2500 Dowie Memorial Drive, Zion. Concert will begin at 8 p.m. sharp. For more information call at 872-4803.

Adoptive Families Today presents its spring program

Adoptive Families Today is offering two workshops to adoptive parents on Saturday, May 13, at St. Phillips Episcopal Church, 342 E. Wood St., Palatine.

Proceedings begin at 9 a.m. with a hospitality gathering, followed by a membership meeting. The workshops will run concurrently from 9:30 to 11 a.m. There is no charge for AFT members and $3 per person for non-members.

The first workshop is "How to Use Early Intervention Services," presented by Judy Stigger LCSW, Supervisor, International Adoption, The Cradle, Evanston. This workshop notifies parents-to-be and parents that there are services available for infants and young toddlers who have delays in development and who are likely to have delays.

The second workshop offered is

"The Diagnosis and Management of ADD/ADHD" presented by Dan Goff, Psy. D., from Arlington Center, Arlington Heights. For adoptive parents of children age four and up, Dr. Goff will explain how ADD/ADHD is diagnosed and the way to manage the disability.

All prospective and adoptive parents are invited to attend this program.

Adoptive Families Today (AFT) is a non-profit, parent, volunteer support group for prospective and adoptive parents and adoption professionals. AFT provides education, support groups, children's activities, a monthly newsletter, annual conference, resources and referrals.

For any questions, contact Kathy Casey at 382-0858, or visit AFT's web site at www.adoptivefamiliestoday.org.

Regional Christian band offers message through music

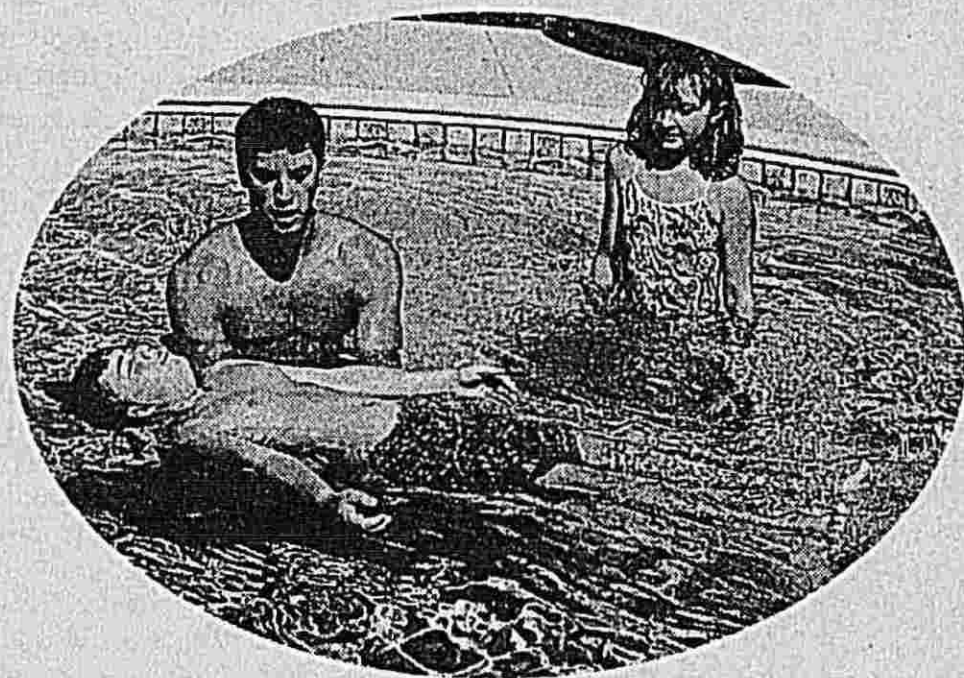

A talented team of young adults offering a Christian, youth-oriented musician ministry in the West Great Lakes region will be in Lindenhurst, Saturday, May 13. The spirited Captive Free band members commit to a year-long, full-time tour performing in hundreds of churches as well as schools, youth events, coffee houses, nursing homes, camps, prisons, colleges and prisons. Incorporating contemporary music, drama, puppets, personal sharing, and group building, team members reach out to people of all ages. The program theme this year—"Be Not Afraid!"—is designed to offer something for everyone.

St. Mark Lutheran Church invites the general public to join Captive Free (Sara Anderson, Jo Barrett, Jeromy Dorsing, Shane Flynn, Beth Gearhart, Phil Grove, and Kirsten Lyshoj) on Saturday May 13. Set your alarms for a concert beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The group will also be leading worship services at 8 and 11 a.m. on Sunday May 14.

A free offering will be taken.

Butterfly enthusiasts can enjoy year-round experience

On the wings of butterflies, the Milwaukee Public Museum is taking natural science and learning to new heights.

On Monday, May 15, the Museum opens a new permanent exhibit, the "Puelicher Butterfly Wing," featuring a spacious tropical butterfly garden and butterflies from around the world. Visitors of all ages will experience a mixture of science and fun in an exhibit that communicates the importance of these natural wonders as indicators of the environment's health.

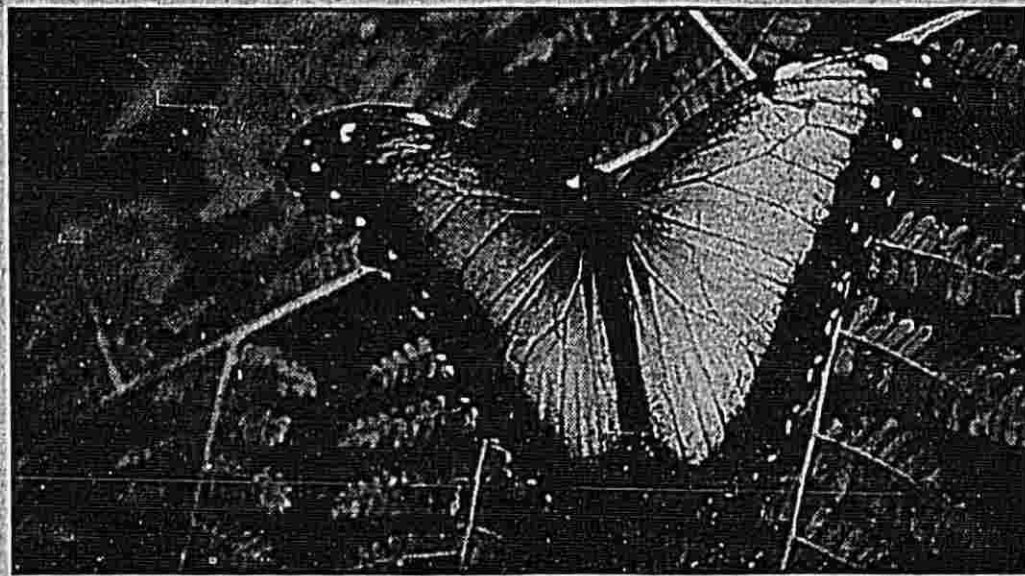

The "Puelicher Butterfly Wing" is part of a new addition to the front of the Museum. Its sweeping architectural highlight will offer a permanent home to hundreds of tropical and domestic butterflies in a rain forest environment, complete with foliage, blooming plants, tranquil music and a cascading waterfall.

Complementing the garden is a learning gallery, with interactive stations and examples of science at work. Specimens from the Museum's world-class Lepidoptera (butterflies and moths) collection are showcased, along with the research of Museum scientists.

A changing array of species will be represented, 20 or more at a given time, including the electric blue Morpho butterfly, the Owl Eye and various Longwings. The year-round tropical garden will house butterflies from Central and South America, Texas, the Philippines, Malaysia and Africa.

This sensory wonderland provides a "you-are-there" butterfly experience. Visitors can get close enough to watch a butterfly unravel its proboscis (feeding tube) to sip nectar from a flower.

The butterflies will be imported as pupae (chrysalises) from butterfly farms located in various places around the world. None of the butterflies will be taken from the wild. All pupae will be placed in a transformation station within the garden where visitors can see butterflies emerge right before their eyes.

The Blue Morpho flies in floppy, zigzag patterns along rivers and forest edges, and through coffee plantations, from Mexico to Colombia and Venezuela. This permanent tropical garden will offer butterfly enthusiasts of all ages the ideal butterfly experience—a rain forest environment where exotic butterflies emerge from chrysalises and sip nectar right before their eyes.

Visitors can raise their "Insect IQ" in the adjacent gallery. Hands-on activities and videos designed to heighten awareness of how butterflies provide lessons about the natural world and its complexities will be offered.

The gallery's centerpiece is a working butterfly laboratory, where visitors can study butterflies and moths through interactive stations. Children can roam a super-size butterfly garden habitat and transform themselves into caterpillars or butterflies. A Wisconsin backyard diorama is also featured, and visitors can take home tips on attracting butterflies to their neighborhoods.

The Museum's Lepidoptera Collection

The learning gallery will showcase only a fraction of the wealth of the Museum's world-class Lepidoptera collection, which consists of more than 250,000 specimens.

Begun more than a century ago, the collection serves as the major reference for Lepidoptera in the Midwest region and the Neotropics, and as a specimen repository for various studies involving Lepidoptera.

The oldest specimens were collected locally by members of the Wisconsin Natural History Society, and date back to the late 1880s. Since then, the Museum has had the continuing support of some of Wisconsin's most knowledgeable Lepidopterists.

The Jack Puelicher Butterfly Garden

The "Jack Puelicher Butterfly Garden" is a technological feat designed to maintain a tropical environment throughout all of Wisconsin's four seasons. The garden features an "intelligent glass facade" of two glass walls. Three feet separate the outer glass wall from the inner glass wall. These walls keep the cold air outside from clashing with the warm, humid air inside, thereby avoiding condensation.

"Jack Puelicher believed the butterfly expansion would significantly benefit the Museum and the community," Moynihan said. "The 'Puelicher Butterfly Wing' will be his legacy to future generations."

The "Puelicher Butterfly Wing" is part of a 16,600-square-foot addition to the Museum that also includes new educational areas and enlarged visitor amenities.

Due to the generosity of the Puelicher Foundation and other good representation of different types of art in different media."

Lake Villa artist Bruce Niemi, whose metal sculpture was installed in the clerestory over the main room of the library, commented on the library's eclectic choices. "I commend the library for taking a step toward contemporary art," he said. "They could have made a 'safe' choice of only traditional art for the library's permanent collection."

Niemi's work is abstract in design, but, as the artist describes it, "with a nature theme."

"My designs are filled with energy and movement, meant to make your eyes move upward," he said. "I try to reflect a positive uplifting attitude in my work."

Niemi's sculpture, designed specifically for its location, was installed in March. The artist worked on site from a "cherry-picker," fusing separate pieces of steel together to form a flowing image. The steel had been treated with ferric nitrate to create a patina, then coated with linseed oil to halt the process and control the rusting effect.

The sculpture was deliberately left untitled. Suzi Niemi, the artist's wife, suggested a naming contest to encourage community involvement in the process. The library-sponsored contest ran from April 3-May 3. The winning title will be inscribed on a display plaque to be hung in the library.

Niemi is best known for his large public sculptures. One of his pieces, "Peace," sits on the campus of the College of Lake County in Grayslake. Niemi has a number of other public installations, and has won more than 30 awards in juried art shows. He also maintains a Lake Villa gallery, which is open to the public.

The works of the other two artists, Marnie Warren and Stuart Slavik, are more representational.

"My career has been a roller-coaster," Warren said. "Now it's on the ascent." The Wildwood artist noted that representational art fell into disfavor for a number of years.

"For a while, art was about the arrangement of materials," she said. Now, it appears, art depicting recognizable images is regaining stature. There is a place for representational art," Warren said. "Anything and everything is considered valid."

Although Warren's usual work is represented by large, life-sized portraits painted in oils, she said "The library bought the smallest and most personal painting I ever made: a small watercolor of Peter Pan."

Warren had always been enchanted by James Barrie's story of the boy who wouldn't grow up. Her painting was drawn from one of Barrie's own photographs of a boy named David.

"This is the only watercolor I've ever done that remains," she said. Commenting on the visual quality of the painting, the artist remarked "I like the transparency."

Warren also makes oil paintings by private commission, through her business called "Radiant Portraits." Her commissioned subjects include both people and pets. Her own three pug dogs run through her cozy studio, where Warren displays pictures of dogs, cats and horses alongside such works as her "Three Queens" series of satirical portraits of Queen Elizabeth I.

"I appreciate the technical skill of photo-realism," he admitted, "but why do it?" Slavik's work, while involving popular cultural images, is also not "pop art."

"Pop art" is very staid," he said. "I try to make my paintings come alive, with a feeling of movement, like floating in a space-ship, without gravity."

Slavik's own paintings, done in acrylics, are "usually of food," he laughed. "I paint candy bars and ice cream." Slavik was commissioned to make a painting to hang in the Tootsie Roll corporate office.

A full-time painter for 42 years,

Slavik recalls an early job with a manufacturer of decorator paintings. The job, making paintings with "color schemes" to match decor, lasted only two weeks. "Besides the work itself, I wasn't good at the regimentation of being there on time," he laughed.

His style has evolved over time. "Twenty years ago I was painting Wyeth-esque country scenes," he recalled.

He describes his current style as "deliberate randomness." The untitled work that hangs on the upper wall of the library lobby is typical of his style. It depicts a book bag, fallen open, with a fluttering of books, magazines and other media flying across the wall.

"I make a main painting, with satellites," Slavik explained. "I create a feeling of suspension, floating—turning a two-dimensional medium into three dimensions."

Slavik accomplishes this feat through his technique, which involves painting on masonite, then cutting the pieces out and mounting them separately on the wall, in an arrangement.

Slavik, an avid reader, donated a cheery painting of sunglasses to the library, in addition to producing the commissioned lobby painting. His work has a spirit of fun.

"I'm the Bob Hope of artists," he quipped.

Each of these artists approaches expression in a different way, looking at different aspects of life with different eyes. They teach us to see in new ways. They take our minds on wonderful flights of fancy.

The display will open at the Lake Villa District Library on May 11 at 7 p.m. For more information about Lake Villa artists, and other programs at the Lake Villa District Library, call Liz Glazer at 356-7711, ext. 213.

SPECIAL EVENT

'Feast of St. Joseph's Table' to benefit the hungry

Father Cull and Friends of the Hungry announce the 12th annual "Feast of St. Joseph's Table" on Sunday, May 21, noon to 5 p.m. at St. Anastasia Church, 624 Douglas Ave., Waukegan. The Feast will consist of a delicious mostaccioli dinner and continuous entertainment.

The annual event is held to raise funds to help the soup kitchens and food pantries that feed the hungry people of North Chicago, Waukegan and Zion.

Father Cull said it is sad that, even with today's vibrant economy, there are still men, women and children that have somehow, for different reasons, fallen through the cracks of our society. He is thankful and appreciative that so many good folks work to raise money and also work at the soup kitchens and food pantries day after day and year after year. He went on to say it's not only tough to go to sleep hungry, but a real tragedy and he thanks all the good people who work to make sure that soup kitchens and food pantries are available so that no one goes to sleep hungry.

He went on to say the "Feast of St. Joseph's Table" is not only a fund-raiser, but a fun day for all who attend. The dinner is outstanding, cooked and prepared by longtime event chief Joe Leccesi and of course our continuous entertainment from noon to 5 p.m. All are great entertainers and this year newcomers Patricia Jones, Waukegan Township Supervisor, singing with Mayor Lane Harrison of Zion, will join with Mayor Bill Durkin of Waukegan and Father Cull and his hungry Seven Band. There are many other entertainers, and that list is being compiled by entertainment chairman, Hank Bogdala and will be announced soon. Bogdala said the PC Clowns will again be on hand for making balloon animals and face paintings for the children and adults, if they so choose.

Islo Leccesi, ticket chairman, said tickets are available at the door or from her by calling 662-0160 or call Beverly Bogdala at 244-5746. Cost for admission is $6 for adults, $3 for children 5 to 12 and free to children under 4.

Father Cull said the Friends of the Hungry is an Inter-Faith, all volunteer organization devoted solely to raising funds for the hungry.

FAMILY FUN

YMCA celebrates Cince de Mayo

Join the fun at the Hastings Lake YMCA for Family Night, May 5, from 7-10 p.m. Come gather the family for a festive night of games and dancing, at the YMCA's Sears Friday Family Night. Members and friends alike will be playing in the pool on our Inflatable Magic Island, create crafts, and enjoy healthy snacks. Children and their parents are encouraged to bring their friends and neighbors to the festivities. The Hastings Lake YMCA is located at 20517 West Grass Lake Rd., Lake Villa.

Plan a magical Mother's Day

Mother's Day will be a magical one at Flatlander's Restaurant and Brewery, Lincolnshire. A magician will be performing delightful tricks tableside during the delicious buffet brunch offered at the large family restaurant. In addition, a beautiful flower will be presented to every mother when she enters the architecturally unusual restaurant.

The exterior of Flatlander's is designed as a combination of the Frank Lloyd Wright Prairie style of architecture combined with the olde English Malt House style of design.

One of the best parts of any Sunday buffet brunch at Flatlander's is its knee-high Kids Table where young children help themselves to food they enjoy.

More than 100 items will be on the Mother's Day brunch buffet which is consistent with the variety offered every Sunday at Flatlander's. Hours for the buffet are extended with seatings at 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 12:15 p.m., and 2 p.m. Prices are $16 for adults, $6 for children 6-12, and kids under 6 eat free.

Reservations are always suggested by calling 821-1234. Flatlander's is located one block east of Milwaukee Ave., at Rte 45, Lincolnshire.

40 years: 100 works of art

Remember the cows? Now see the plates: 100 original works of art created by Chicago's top artists and celebrities in honor of the Suburban Arts Center's (SFAC) 40th anniversary.

With participating artists ranging from Ed Paschke and Gladys Nilsson to Hilary Rodham Clinton and Scott Turow and Muhammed Ali, the plates display whimsy, boldness, imagination and wit, signatures and outright originality.

The SFAC will celebrate 40 years of creating art at Pops Highwood on Sunday, May 7 from 6-9 p.m. The plates will be on silent auction and entertainment will be provided by jazz vocalist Roberta Miles and piano prodigy Eric Stang. The silent auction will begin the last week in April at the SFAC, 1913 Sheridan Road in downtown Highland Park and will close May 7 at Pops Highwood. All proceeds benefit the education fund of the SFAC. For more information call 432-1888.

GARDENING

Bowen Heritage Circle gears up for spring

Another in the many wonderful classes the Lake County Extension office offers to the community will be at the Bowen Heritage Circle on May 9 from 7-8:30 p.m. A master gardener will explain about one of the newest trends in gardening...ornamental grasses. Find out what they are, how to grow them and how they can be used in a garden. This class at Lilac Cottage, 1911 N. Sheridan Rd., Waukegan will follow a lecture and slide presentation format. The fee is $5. Call the Jack Benny Center at 360-4740.

UI gardening classes

University of Illinois Extension in Lake County will repeat two of the spring gardening classes offered earlier this year. Both the classes will be taught by Extension Horticulturist Sharon Yesla.

"Ornamental Grasses" will be held on Wednesday, May 10, 1-3 p.m. Ornamental grasses are one of the new trends in gardening. They can add color and pizzazz to your garden.

"Garden Design and Landscape Basics" will be held on Wednesday, May 17, 1-3 p.m. Learn the principles of design that will help you create a special landscape. This presentation will cover the basic of designing with flowers as well as proper placement of trees and shrubs.

Classes are free and advanced registration is required. To register, call the Extension office at 223-8627. All sessions will be held at the Extension office in Grayslake.

Fair Diddley Craft Show set

The Mental Health Resource League for McHenry County, Inc. will sponsor the 32nd Annual Fair Diddley Craft Show on Saturday, May 21, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m., on the Woodstock City Square.

Thousands of fairgoers attend Fair Diddley every year. The juried craft show features over 300 booths of many new artisans, along with favorite exhibitors. Look for an outstanding variety of folk art, wood carving, dried florals, pottery, painted and appliqued clothing, jewelry, fine art and much more. Hungry fairgoers will find tasty food concessions around the Square and the League's traditional bake sale in the Springhouse. Visit the League's Information Booth on the Opera House corner.

Proceeds benefit McHenry County agencies concerned with mental health services.

All League members are volunteers and new members are always welcome. Both 2000 craft shows are filled and no stand-bys will be accommodated. For membership and crafter information for 2001, please write to: MHRL, P.O. Box 204, McHenry 60051 or call 815/385-5745.

Fuel your imagination at the Museum of Science and Industry

New permanent exhibit now open

Lip balm, sneakers, toothpaste, ski equipment. What do these things have in common? They're all made with petroleum, along with thousands of other household items used every day.

The Museum of Science and Industry recently opened Petroleum Planet, the museum's newest exhibit. Made possible by a gift from BP Amoco, Petroleum Planet will transform guests into hydrocarbon molecules for a truly up-close-and-personal look at the refinement process, transportation and everyday uses of petroleum.

Greeted by multicolored tubes of bubbling petroleum, guests will step into the exhibit and assume their role as a tiny hydrocarbon molecule in a vast pipeline. From there, guests will embark on a journey through distillation and transportation control and the "pig pen," finally arriving at their destination as a finished product.

"BP Amoco is proud to be the sponsor of the only interactive petroleum exhibit in the world," said Irene Brown, Executive Director, Global Social Investments, Chicago Region, BP Amoco. "Petroleum Planet" shows people how petroleum impacts every area of our lives from medicine and science to sports. Our exhibit is an exciting, educating tool for children and adults. It is our gift to Chicago and guests from around the world."

Along the way, guests also will be able to participate in several interactive computer challenges designed to illustrate key aspects of petroleum use and production. Ride a ski simulator and learn how petroleum products protect us in various sports like skiing or snow boarding. Test your skills in a race car simulator and see the various volatility levels of gasoline and the importance of blending additives.

The Museum of Science and Industry is one of the country's pre-eminent centers for informal science and technology education. Located at 57th St. and Lake Shore Dr., just minutes from downtown Chicago. For more information, call (773) 684-1414 or visit our website at www.msi-chicago.org. Outside the Chicago area, call 1 (800) GO-TO-MSI (1,800,468-6674).

'Where the Heart Is' lacks soul

Let's get it over with: this is a "chick flick." The title telegraphs it. Men don't like to go to movies with the word "heart" in the title, unless accompanied by the words "brave," "bleeding," "savage," or "of the dragon."

"Where the Heart Is" starts out well enough, with trailer-trash 17-year-old Novalee Nation (Natalie Portman) pregnant and abandoned at an Oklahoma Wal-Mart, owning a pair of rubber sandals, a Polaroid camera, and $5.55 in change.

Nation does not like fives. Abandonment and pain come to her dressed to the fives: her mother ran away with a ne'er-do-well when the protagonist was five; her arm was cut from wrist to elbow, requiring 55 stitches—and, ultimately, she gives birth to her daughter, on July 5, under the "aisle five" sign in the Wal-Mart, where she takes up prenatal residence.

Nation is abandoned yet again by her mother (Sally Fields), who hears of her daughter's fame as the "Wal-Mart Mommy," and takes off with Wal-Mart's $500 gift to the new mother. Fields's brief appearance on screen is marked by a hackneyed movie review

portrayal of a flighty, selfish opportunist. She appears in a single scene, never to be heard from or even mentioned again.

The young mother and child are taken in by recovering alcoholic "Sister Husband" (Stockard Channing), and befriended by a habitually pregnant hospital aide (Ashley Judd), a semi-reclusive librarian (James Frain), and a photographer at Wal-Mart with the unlikely name of Moses Whitecotton (Keith David).

The tale proceeds in predictable fashion, with the eccentric surrogate "family" giving the young woman who has "never lived anyplace that didn't have wheels under it" a real home, a caring circle of friends, a blossoming artistic career, independence and true love to boot.

Meanwhile, Willy Jack (Dylan Bruno), the self-centered wanna-be musician boyfriend who dumped Nation lands in jail, emerging to rise and fall in the Country-Western music world, finally meeting Nation when he has become humbled, legless, and maudlinly apologetic.

The "types" are all here: ignorant, but spunky, resourceful and honest waif; odd-ball mother-substitute; tramp-with-heart-of-gold best friend; bad boy who gets his just desserts, weird but loving male friend, and unexpected mentor.

The actors all do their best, but there isn't a deep moment in the two-hour and ten-minute trip through Nation's life. She seems to grow from phase to phase without internal struggle, question or regret, shedding each step of her life like last year's winter coat.

Homeless pregnant teen Novalee Nation (Natalie Portman) meets "Welcome Woman" Sister Husband (Stockard Channing) in Twentieth Century Fox's new release, "Where the Heart Is."

The allegedly profound loss of a "family member," is apparently mitigated by a modest legacy that allows Nation to build a "real" home in the wake of a tornado.

Even Nation's climactic decision to accept love seems to turn on a fortune-cookie-like moment with her repentant ex-lover.

The production values suffer as well. Most of the camera work is pedestrian at best. In two shots, a boom-mike is clearly visible.

If an evening away from male company is what you crave, this film is a sure bet. If you want substance, not soap-opera with bubbles, try a movie with a little more heart and a lot more soul.

I'll give it two popcorn boxes, because I like seeing movies with a lot of women in the cast, but wish there were more movies with a lot of substance in the women.

Montessori school performs elementary operetta

Annual event at Christian Heritage Academy May 19

Montessori School of Lake Forest's elementary students and parents will perform their annual operetta at Christian Heritage Academy, Friday, May 19 at 7 p.m., 13700 West Laurel Dr., Lake Forest. Operetta 2000, entitled "The Awakened One—The Life of Buddha," presents a factual version of the life of the first Buddha. Students venture back 2,500 years to the foothills of the Himalayas to meet Siddhartha Gautama—a young man destined to change the lives of millions of people.

With the assistance of their teachers and director/composer Sanford Jones, the third- to sixth-grade students will all sing solos. All elementary students will design their own props and scenery. Parents and teachers will donate traditional Indian ware. Each year the operetta represents a true community event. Children from all three elementary classes work together on committees to make suggestions and offer ideas and solutions. They apply academic skills to real-life problems and work on this project from conception to completion; they own it and take responsibility for its outcome. From original inspiration to dress rehearsal, the elementary children experience the joy of purposeful work and creative expression; they learn patience, how to compromise, gain confidence, and reap the benefits of hard work.

For more information or to order tickets, call the Montessori School at 918-1000.

Racine Symphony Orchestra to present 'Awakenings'

The Racine Symphony Orchestra will present 'Awakenings,' the final concert of the 1999-2000 season, on Saturday, May 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Festival Hall.

The program will feature a performance of the Prokofiev Violin Concerto No. 2 by violinist Kyung

Sun Lee, a world premiere work by the symphony's own Sam Belich entitled Love Songs, based on Shakespeare sonnets, and Beethoven's powerful Fifth Symphony.

Tickets for this event can be purchased through the Racine Symphony Orchestra office at 262/636-9285, or on the evening of the concert at the door. Adult tickets are $15, senior tickets are $13, and full-time student tickets (through college age) are $5. Call the symphony office for more information.

Answer

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Don't let a minor setback in your personal life keep you from working toward a goal. You have to go after what you want. If you stay focused and try to be positive, you're sure to make your dream a reality. A good friend turns to you for advice. Be honest with him or her.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Try not to let a mishap at work upset you. It is an honest mistake that really doesn't cause you any trouble. So, let it go; don't get aggravated. The person whom you've been seeing wants to take a break. While you're hurt, try to realize that time apart will be good for your relationship. Sagittarius plays an important role.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

A loved one puts you in a difficult position late in the week, Gemini. Before getting angry at him or her, try to get yourself out of this mess. It will take a lot of effort, but you can do it if you stay focused. Once the situation is rectified, let this person know how upset you are.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

This week, take the time to contact a friend with whom you haven't spoken in a while. He or she will be glad to hear from you, and you're sure to learn some interesting information. That special someone has a surprise for you on Thursday. While you're not excited about the gift, let this person know how much you appreciate his or her effort.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Don't let your pride get in the way when it comes to a disagreement with a loved one early in the week, Leo. This person means a lot to you. So, don't let this minor problem ruin your relationship. Make the first move. Your effort will be reciprocated. Scorpio plays a key role on Wednesday.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

You have a lot on your to-do list this week, Virgo. So, you have to be organized and stay focused in order to get things accomplished. Don't get distracted by those around you. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify your relationship. Say yes, because this is what you want too.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

An acquaintance turns to you in a time of need. Don't push him or her away. Listen to what this person has to say, and offer some advice. You really can help ease the situation. Your efforts will be appreciated. Virgo plays an important role.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

Don't lie to cover up a mistake that you make early in the week, Scorpio. You'll only get caught. Just acknowledge the error, and work to rectify the situation. Those involved will be impressed with your efforts. That special someone needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Try not to let your temper get the best of you when a loved one tells you about the trouble that he or she is in. Getting angry won't solve anything. Stay calm, and try to figure out a way to set things right. You meet an interesting person on Friday. Get to know him or her better, because this could be the one.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

A business associate introduces you to an intriguing person this week. Don't be shy. He or she really could help your career. If you be yourself, you're sure to make a good impression. A close friend asks for romantic advice. Be honest with him or her — even if what you have to say won't be appreciated. Leo plays a key role.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Your social calendar is full this week, Aquarius. Don't change your plans when an acquaintance asks for your help. This person can handle the situation alone; he or she just wants to inconvenience you. Don't let that happen. Pisces plays an important role on Thursday.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

You have to take off those rose-colored glasses when it comes to your family this week, Pisces. Everything is not as good as it seems. Try to find out what the problem is, and do your best to rectify the situation.

Depression to suicide, the second leading cause of teen death

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

Tory was a bright, energetic teen with excellent grades and many friends. In the latter part of her sixteenth year, everything began to change. Her grades plummeted, she withdrew from her friends and she lost interest in her extracurricular activities.

PART ONE OF A SERIES

"My girlfriends don't like me anymore," she sobbed. "They'll go places without asking if I want to come along."

Tory began questioning her self-worth. She told school counselors she wanted out of honor classes because she couldn't handle them anymore. She no longer felt attractive to boys, and she lost interest in eating.

Getting up each morning became a daunting process, so she started feigning illness so that her parents would let her stay in bed all day. Showers and clean clothes lost their appeal, and Tory became a greasy-haired, haggard shadow of her former self.

Tory no longer needed to pretend she was ill. She truly was.

Though Tory is not her real name, she is a real person and her true story mirrors that of millions of other teens across the country.

According to a report by the National Mental Health Association, at least one in 10 young people may suffer from serious emotional disturbances. In larger terms, that represents as many as 6 million children and teens that could be going through depression. Research has found that this serious illness is affecting children more now than ever before, particularly adolescent girls. Sadly enough, an estimated two-thirds of those children are not getting the medical attention they need.

May is mental health month

According to the National Mental Health Association, mental illness, taken collectively, is the most widespread health problem in America right now. It is more common than cancer, lung and heart disease combined, yet it receives less attention and resources than most health problems. One in five people may experience mental illness, and one in four families are impacted by mental health disorders.

Mental illness affects the way a person thinks, behaves and interacts with other people. It is an umbrella for a myriad of psychiatric disorders which, in earlier times, were treated by putting those afflicted with the disease into public institutions—out of society's way.

Although there is still a social stigma attached to mental illness, those who suffer from it can be treated effectively and lead normal lives.

The month of May has been designated Mental Health Month. Throughout the month, Lakeland Newspapers will be bringing readers a series of articles that deal with various types of depression. Perhaps readers will see themselves or a loved one in our stories and seek the appropriate help to combat this life-threatening illness.

Porter announces divorce after 26 years

Both profess love and respect for other

Less than a year after he announced his decision to vacate his seat in the United States Congress, U.S. Representative John Porter (R-10th, Ill.) and his wife Kathryn have separated pending a divorce.

In a joint statement, the Porters expressed their love and respect for one another, but admitted that they had drifted apart. They were married for 26 years.

Kathryn Cameron Porter is president of the Washington, D.C.-based Human Rights Alliance. Congressman Porter plans to join the board of the alliance after he leaves Congress at the end of this year.

The separated couple said they remain committed to the cause of human rights that they have fought for together, and will continue to work together on future human rights issues.—by SANDY HARTOGH

Gurnee restaurant non-compliant with Board of Health

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

The Lake County Board of Health has decided not to revoke the food service permit for the Avalon Restaurant at 4821 Grand Ave. in Gurnee. According to Leslie Piotrowski, communications manager for the Lake County Health Department, the board's decision to modify the restaurant's notice of revocation follows an appeal by restaurant owners Manny and Bessy Kritikos.

At an April 28 Hearings Committee meeting, the Board of Health found that the Kritikos were making a significant effort to comply with ordinances that health department sanitarians cited them on. At issue were the restaurant's time/temperature control procedures and the potential for cross-contamination of food, both of which pose the pos-

County recorder assistant honored

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

For some people, Secretary's Day on April 26 was just another "Hallmark holiday." However, Delores Braun received more than just a card of thanks from her boss, Lake County Recorder of Deeds, Mary Ellen Vanderventer. Vanderventer nominated Braun for the Lake County Chamber of Commerce's "Outstanding Performance of 1999" award, and Braun was the chosen winner over 10 other contestants.

"We were so proud and thrilled to see Delores win," recalled Vanderventer. "It was so well-deserved. Delores had an incredible year."

Vanderventer nominated Braun for her dedication as a Lake County employee for 15 years. In addition to her outstanding job performance and commitment, Vanderventer also lauded Braun for her involvement with the county employees' United Way campaign which raised $80,000. Braun was also responsible for promoting an "Upscale/Resale" fundraiser which netted $2,500 for a staff member's 3-year-old son who is afflicted with cancer.

"It's easy being what they (coworkers) think is the best because I have such a great boss and a great place to work," commented a pleasantly surprised Braun.

The award ceremony was held in conjunction with the Chamber's second annual fashion show at the Midlane Country Club in Waukegan. The show's models included Vanderventer, State Senator Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills and wife Susie; Lake County Board members Suzi Schmidt and Angelo Kyle; Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson; Judge Val Boettke Ceckowski; Lake County Visitors Bureau President Gail Svendsen; and Judge Jane Waller, wife of Lake County State's Attorney Michael Waller.

Municipality officials who also modeled included Waukegan Township Supervisor Patricia Jones; Mundelein Mayor Marilyn Sindles; and Gurnee Mayor and Mrs. Richard Welton.

Braun's loot for the day included a gold plaque, a personally embroidered full length terry cloth bathrobe, long-stemmed yellow roses, a one-day excursion to the Octagon Spa and a $50 American Express gift certificate.

Tax bills in mail, due back by June 1

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

'Tis the season to pay taxes, according to Lake County Treasurer, Robert Skidmore. The 1999 Real Estate tax Bills will be mailed the first week in May.

The June 1 due date for the first installment is fast approaching, and the second installment shortly follows on Sept. 1.

You can pay your tax bill in person at Skidmore's office at 18 N. County St., Room 102 in Waukegan. Of course, cash will be accepted along with checks or Discover Card. Fair warning to those who choose to charge their bill on Discover—a $1 to $15 fee will be assessed. Partial payments will also be accepted from those who cannot pay the full amount. Extended office hours will be available on May 27 from 9 a.m.-noon, and on June 1 until 7 p.m.

If tax rage or some other impediment deters you from visiting Skidmore's office, you have the option of paying your bill at most Lake County banks. Just be sure to bring the original tax bill.

Those who feel the need to throttle someone when you receive your tax bill, perhaps it would be best if you just call 1-877-238-6048 and pay your bill via telephone with Visa, Master Card, American Express or Discover Card.

A series of prompts will guide you through the procedures. And, you get the added bonus of paying a 2 to 3 percent convenience fee of the tax amount that you charge.

If you do not receive your tax bill by May 12, refrain from gleefully spending your tax nest egg, and call the treasurer's office at 360-6363.

CLC NOTES

'Snoopy' auditions

The College of Lake County's theatre department will hold auditions for the summer musical, "Snoopy," at 7 p.m. May 1 and 2 in the Studio Theatre of the Grayslake Campus. Performances will take place July 14-16 and 21-22.

Auditions are open to both CLC students and community residents. Interested persons must bring one prepared song. The production is the delightful musical sequel to recently revived hit "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown."

For information, call the communication arts division at 543-2040 or Bob Coscarelli, theatre instructor and director of the musical, at 543-2623.

Geology study trip to Southern Illinois

The geology of southernmost Illinois and Missouri's St. Francois Mountains will be the subject of a weeklong field study trip, sponsored by the College of Lake County's biology division from June 3-10.

Students will survey bedrock and land forms in Shawnee Hills, Cache River lowlands, Heron Pond, Ohio River and reclamation areas. They also will explore the Mississippi River flood plain and bluffs, hiking through areas that include Giant City and the Ferne Clyffe State Parks, Cave-in-Rock and Pomona Natural Bridge.

Interested students must register for GEO 226-001, a three-credit-hour course. No previous background in science is required to enroll in the course. Three pre-trip classes will be held from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. on May 23, 25 and 31 in Room B120. The estimated cost is $430, which includes transportation via vans, camping at Giant City State Park, tuition course fee and food. For more information, call Ron Riepe at 543-2491.

GIVING UP

prematurely label a youth with such a diagnosis factor into that figure. Also, detection of the illness is more difficult with youths because their symptoms may coincide with the more common developmental stages of growing up.

However, Dr. Kay Velisek, a clinical psychologist in Arlington Heights claims the stigma is becoming less prominent than it was.

"Parents are becoming more alert to signs of depression and suicide," she stated. "They're going to pay a little more attention now, particularly after all of the recent (media) headlines. Parents prefer to err on the side of caution."

Velisek attributes the increase in youth depression to the environment in which we live. She acknowledged that it's not the answer to all of the questions surrounding the illness, but it does play an important role.

"Our environment influences our outlook on life, unless we make a conscious effort not to allow it to do so," she said, pointing out that teens don't have the coping strategies that most adults do.

Indeed, dealing with adolescence can be a blustery stage in a young life. Changes in relationships, plotting the future, increased responsibilities and physical changes can be overwhelming to those who don't have strong coping capabilities.

Lake County resident Dr. Sherri Singer, a clinical psychologist and childhood behavior specialist who believes that children are too often misdiagnosed with depression, questions whether depression is a biological or learned illness.

"From the time a person is born, it is hard to differentiate between what is learned and what is innate," said Singer.

She treats many adolescents whom, she says, suffer from "learned helplessness."

"These children think they can't do anything, so they start to feel helpless and hopeless," she explained. "Whatever feelings or symptoms they have are secondary to what they need to do. They need to learn that they can do things with a little more practice."

Unfortunately, many of the nation's untreated "hopeless" teens opt to commit suicide, rather than learn how to cope.

According to statistics from the American Psychiatric Association, suicide is the second leading cause of death among youth ages 15 to 19. Every day approximately 14 people, between the ages of 15 to 24, will commit suicide. Even more alarming is the statistic, put forth by the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry (AACAP), that suicide was the fourth leading cause of death in 10 to 14-year-olds in 1996. Research has found that almost all youths who take their own life suffer from a mental disorder, substance abuse or both.

"Adolescents dealing with physiology and hormones can really feel like they just can't go on," said

Velisek. "On the other hand, the simple impulsivity of teenagers can make them suicidal at breakfast and buying prom gowns at lunch time."

Regardless, Velisek urges those who know of a troubled teenager to be cognitive of the symptoms that could indicate depression or suicidal intentions. The symptoms, as evidenced in Tory's story, include:

- A noticeable departure from normal behavior
- Changes in sleeping and eating habits
- Withdrawal from friends and family
- Neglect of personal appearance
- Decline in quality of schoolwork
- Loss of interest in pleasurable activities
- Frequent complaints of headaches, stomachaches and fatigue
- Violent actions, rebellious behavior, or running away
- Drug and/or alcohol use

While the symptoms of suicide and depression are very similar, Velisek pointed out two that would clearly indicate suicidal intentions. If a youth is talking in terms of suicide or starts to put personal things in order and/or gives them away, it is a red flag for parents that something is seriously wrong.

If one or more of the above symptoms are displayed by a child or teen, it is important for an adult to take notice and talk to the child about it. The AACAP recommends professional help if the symptoms persist.

Treatment for depression in young people is usually a combination of psychotherapy and medication. However, medication of depressed youths is a controversial issue within the mental health profession.

"Doctors sometimes act too quickly with medications," commented Velisek, who is trained to deal with human emotions and behavior, while a psychiatrist is trained through medical school as a doctor of mental health with the ability to prescribe medications.

Singer believes many children who are diagnosed with depression are actually mimicking the symptoms of a depressed person with whom they frequently associate, such as a family member.

"They (children) learn their symptoms can get them something they want or need. They make pattern connections," explained Singer, who noted that her patients usually lose their clinical symptoms once the parents are taught how to make their children behave in an appropriate manner.

The National Institute of Mental Health recommends medication as a first-line course of treatment only for children and adolescents whose symptoms are severe enough to prevent effective psychotherapy, those with psychosis, or those with chronic episodes of depression.

RESTAURANT

which pose the possibility of food-borne illnesses. Efficient employee hand-washing procedures were also addressed.

Piotrowski said the owners were given until May 15 to make the necessary corrections needed to comply with the food service ordinances. They were also instructed to hire a consultant to help them with compliance procedures. If the restaurant fails the May 15 inspection, its food service license will be revoked.

According to Piotrowski, the Kritikos' told board members they already installed approximately $100,000 in new equipment. However, Piotrowski pointed out the compliance problems dealt more with procedures than equipment.

"We are all working together to make sure the restaurant owner has better procedures in place to assure the health of the public," Piotrowski stated.

The manager of the Avalon stated that the owners would not offer comments on the situation.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Village offers alternative to train horns

Mundelein—The Village of Mundelein has volunteered to be the test site for a proposed solution to the Swift Rail Act, a piece of legislation which requires trains to sound their horns at every street intersection.

Many communities have spoken out against the act, claiming that the train whistles are intrusive into the daily lives of residents and significantly affects the quality of life within the village.

In testimony given to the Federal Railway Administration (FRA) on April 27, Mundelein Village Administrator Ken Marabella proposed a plan to install and study the effects of automated wayside horns at the railroad crossings. The horns would theoretically alert drivers in the vicinity of the crossing without causing a noise problem throughout the village.

"They expressed interest in working with us on the study," he said.

The village feels that the Automated Horn System could not only be used in Mundelein, but in communities across the nation as a low cost alternative to train whistles.

Peace made on racial slur issue

Gurnee—Gurnee Village officials displayed an amicable disposition towards one another at the May 1 village board meeting, following trustee allegations that Mayor Richard Welton spewed a Jewish racial slur during an April budget workshop. Welton denied the allegations, but issued a written apology on April 27 for bringing up the religious faith of two Gurnee property owners during the budget discussions.

The unexpected peaceful meeting was largely due to the efforts of Alan Mann, president of Congregation Or Tikvah, the only Jewish synagogue in Gurnee.

Mann told officials that it was important for community leaders to work collaboratively and set a positive example for the village. His desire to promote peace coincided with Yom Hashoa, a day for those of the Jewish faith to remember the Holocaust.

"When I think of the atrocities that were brought on my people at that time, of course it sickens and saddens me," stated Mann. "But I look around Gurnee, and I'm thankful that I live in a community which welcomes all people."

Mann had immediately set to work to diffuse the potential political bomb by meeting with Welton and trustees prior to the board meeting.

Fox Lake sues former sewer chief

Fox Lake—Fox Lake officials are bracing for a possible long legal battle in attempting to collect funds or services allegedly misappropriated by a former employee.

Village officials filed a federal lawsuit against former Village of Fox Lake Superintendent of Water and Sewer Department Richard A. Leber, Jr. and his cousin, Robert R. Leber, Jr., who worked for the department.

The two Lebers allegedly used an engineering firm in McHenry to channel Village property and services to village employees while being paid on village time, according to Alheimer and Gray, village legal counsel. The firm has not been implicated or named as a party in the suit.

The complaint also alleges that former the superintendent accepted bribe payments from a chemical company. The bribes were allegedly taken in exchange for purchasing chemicals and polymers for the Northwest Regional Water Reclamation Facility, owned by the Village of Fox Lake, at highly inflated prices.

Father charged in infant battery case

Round Lake Beach—Terry To, 35, of Round Lake Beach was charged with the aggravated battery for allegedly causing serious injury to his infant son, who had to be hospitalized.

According to Round Lake Beach Police, To confessed to dropping 4-week-old Tyrell on a floor at home, fracturing the infant's skull. To also admitted to shaking the infant on more than one occasion, police said.

On April 28 Round Lake Beach Police arrested To in his home, after receiving a call from a social worker at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago about the infant's condition.

To and his girlfriend, who has not been identified, brought the child to Condell Acute Care Center in Round Lake Beach on April 23. The couple claimed the infant had been unresponsive.

The infant was transported to the medical center's Libertyville location and later air-lifted to Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

To was taken to the Lake County Jail with a bond set for $150,000, police said.

War memorial proposed for Grayslake

Grayslake—Grayslake village trustees chose to unanimously support a proposed Millennium War Memorial project at their May 2 meeting.

In a committee of the whole meeting, the board heard a request from Robert Wegge, representing American Legion Post 659 and the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW). According to Village Manager Mike Ellis, the request asked the village to allow construction of a war memorial on village property located at the southeast corner of Center St. and Seymour Ave. The village was also asked to agree to take ownership and maintenance of the memorial and to commit a minimum of $30,000 towards the $200,000 project.

Trustee Terese Douglass motioned for the village to commit $100,000 to the project, and Ellis said there was "enthusiastic unanimous support for it." He believes it will be approved when it comes before the village board for an official vote in the future.

Teens ask for right to skate

Antioch—A room full of Antioch teens addressed the Village Board on May 1 with the desire to skate, skateboard, and ride bikes. Their question was where and how these activities can be done without getting into trouble.

"We feel that we are being treated unfairly by the cops, giving us tickets and being thrown off of public property," commented one of the teens, David Nielsen, before the board.

Village administrator Tim Wells went to great lengths to explain the process necessary to get a skating park under works. Minimally, the names and addresses of those interested in a skate park are needed to determine precisely where the interest lies.

Trustee Wayne Foresta suggested that the board revisit the ordinance regulating the use of bicycles, skateboards and skates and get the information out to the public so that everyone knows what the laws are.

Village attorney Kenneth Clark read the ordinance, noting that there were restrictions prohibiting the use of skateboards anywhere in Antioch, unless written consent was obtained for use on private property.

Rescue squad honored

Lake Villa—The Lake Villa Rescue Squad was honored on May 3 by Prudential Insurance, in recognition of the squad's participation in Prudential's "Helping Hearts" program.

The program is designed to help non-profit volunteer rescue squads acquire defibrillators, which are used to "shock" a heart back into a regular heartbeat. The defibrillator units purchased by the Lake Villa squad also incorporate an electro-cardiogram (EKG), to diagnose cardiac arrest incidents.

"Our old units had only three leads," explained rescue squad chief J.R. Halek. "The new ones have 12 leads." The chief said that the squad has always had defibrillator/monitor units, but the new ones allow emergency personnel to "see" the heart in more detail, making diagnosis and treatment quicker and more effective.

Prudential's program provides up to $1,000 in matching funds to rescue squads who raise money for the purchase of the machines. In 1999, Prudential gave out $500,000 to participating organizations.

Residents oppose property purchase

Wadsworth—A petition against the purchase of the Besinger property is circulating around Wadsworth.

Richard Zielinski Jr., a town resident, informed board members at their May 2 meeting of being approached by an individual to sign the petition.

At an April 18 regular meeting, board members approved an ordinance to purchase the Besinger property.

The property is in a residential zone and is situated between Wadsworth and Caroline Rds. in the historic section of Wadsworth.

Trustee Ron Sheptak said under the village zoning ordinance the property can be utilized for commercial purposes.

As of April 18, the village had not made a close on the land.

Board approves fast food restaurant

Wauconda—The Wauconda Village Board approved annexation plans for a Pizza Hut Express and Taco Bell combined proposal for the village's west side.

Approval was unanimous, on the condition that ingress and egress permits from Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) be obtained in writing before building permits are issued.

About a dozen residents attended the May 2 hearing to voice fears about the fast food business's impact at Anderson Rd. and Slocum Lake Rd.

Dist. 128 to sell St. Mary's property

Libertyville—Libertyville and Vernon Hills Community High School District 128 board members have approved a resolution authorizing the sale of the St. Mary's Rd. property in Mettawa. The decision on the 40-acre parcel of land came at the district's April 24 board meeting.

According to the school board, land currently owned by District 128 will not be needed in the future. The decision comes as a result of study by the Brainerd Task Force, a group assembled to investigate the potential benefits of selling land the district owns.

The St. Mary's land will be sold through sealed bids, by public sale. District 128 board members say the minimum bid for the property will be $1.8 million, with an expectation that the land will sell for a higher amount.

The school board will accept sealed bids until 9 a.m. on June 13.

Teacher picked for science trip

Wadsworth—A St. Patrick School teacher was selected to participate in the Earth Explore Science Discovery program.

After submitting application material and conducting a phone interview, Marie Gehrig, a fifth grade teacher at the school, was picked to be a program leader.

Each year the Earth Explore program, which is based in Washington, asks participating families to nominate instructors. Mary Kate Stefanowski, one of Gehrig's students, felt she was well deserving of the opportunity.

Earth Explore will take place June 17-30. Selected students and instructors will journey across Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Montana.

During the two-week program, participants will study subjects, ranging from paleontology and endangered species conservation to frontier history.

READS program bridges generations

Lindenhurst—The gap separating old from young is closed on a weekly basis at the B.J. Hooper School, where every Wednesday from 9:30-10:30 a.m., a group of 23 residents from The Village at Victory Lakes meets to tutor young children as part of the America READS Program. America READS is a nation-wide volunteer project designed to help grade school students improve reading skills.

"We've been involved in this program since September, 1999," said Janet Winograd, activities coordinator at The Village. Originally, the program was remedial in nature, but now, all the students in the school want to participate.

Each week, the senior volunteers meet with Kindergarten through fifth-graders to share reading aloud. Some of the volunteers work one-on-one, while some might read with small groups of children.

The emphasis is on reading for pleasure. "A lot of times children are too tuned into TV or extra-curricular activities that take time away from reading," Assistant Principal Mary Grom said. "The best way to improve reading skills is by reading aloud."

The program provides far more than academic benefits. The students and volunteers have formed strong bonds.

Regional planning needs village help

County officials are trying, valiantly, to get municipal leaders to join them in regional planning, the process where local level elected representatives hammer out the guidelines that head-off or at least mitigate the excesses of rampant growth and development.

A collaborative effort is all the more important today because the county now has the newly minted Unified Development Ordinance (UDO), a document several years in the making and a road map designed to take Lake County well into the new millennium.

Technically, the UDO applies to unincorporated Lake County, but county officials harbor the hope that guidelines providing for open space and protecting the environment will be embraced by villages and cities. Gauged by past history, that's asking a lot. It's a worthy goal, though, nonetheless.

County Chairman Jim LaBelle (R-Zion) and Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake), chairman of the County Board's Planning, Building and Zoning Committee which was responsible for UDO adoption, are in the vanguard of the regional planning movement. Leafblad views planning cooperation as critical to preserving the county's unique lifestyle. "We're becoming one community," is the way Leafblad describes the intertwined nature of problems and solutions. LaBelle sees a ray of hope for more planning collaboration through expansion of the county's Regional Planning Commission (RPC) by beefing up representation from the villages.

With all due credit to the enthusiasm of LaBelle and Leafblad, the outlook for joint planning and implementation of the UDO is bleak. Over the years, municipal officialdom has shown little or no interest in regional planning. Leafblad has touched on lack of communication as a reason. He's only partially correct. More to the point is the fact that too often in the past the county has portrayed itself a "Big Brother" in the planning process. Village antagonism toward the county is fed by a natural desire of municipal councils to adopt the Frank Sinatra approach: "Do It My Way." The result is a hodge podge of conflicting plans and a collision of philosophies. We don't have to go into the ugly things that are happening with two forces fighting over the same turf.

There is merit in LaBelle's suggestion to draw in the interest and participation of the villages and cities through greater participation in the RPC. Better yet, why not target several municipalities as a starter to promote joint regional planning and inter-governmental agreements? Not every village has been thumbing its nose at county government. County officials ought to seek out municipal leaders who understand the benefits of regional planning. Work with them. Create some success stories. The county has employed a capable new director of planning and development, Philip Rovang, a highly regarded professional. All the taxpayers, homeowners in municipalities and unincorporated areas alike, contribute toward Rovang's salary. Let him work for everyone. Breakdown the boundaries.

Leafblad is correct. "Lake County is becoming one community." But it's going to be a pretty messed up community if regional planning isn't adopted at the municipal level—very soon.

Who will be among the first local officials to have the courage to step forward and give regional planning a try?

Bypass solutions make good sense

Two attractive bypass proposals have come forward as solutions to mid-county traffic gridlock. What is interesting is that both rely on known, or accepted transportation corridors, rather than carving new routes out of Lake County's much heralded rolling countryside.

Support has been voted by the Grayslake council for a six-lane Rte. 120 bypass that would provide for high speed east-west travel. At the same time, there is growing interest, particularly in Mundelein, in a Rte. 83 bypass designed to expedite north-south traffic outside of congested areas.

While the Rte. 83 proposal is regarded a new finding of the Lake County Transportation Improvement Project, the Rte. 120 bypass would be a continuation of four-lane Belvidere Rd. (Rte. 120) that was halted 40 years ago at Wildwood, a short distance east of Rte. 45.

The expanded Rte. 120 bypass would connect with Wilson Rd. in west Lake County, a plan envisioned four decades ago by state engineers.

Grayslake Mayor Pat Carey likes the Rte. 120 bypass because it would not displace homes and businesses along existing Belvidere. That's the beauty of bypass plans now on the table: Minimal disruption and utilization of existing corridors.

FIRST SIGNS OF SPRING...

VIEWPOINT

Scandal hounds both Ill. parties

Neither political party, events have shown recently, is immune from scandal in the Illinois Secretary of State's office.

Under the watch of current Republican Gov. George Ryan, driver's licenses were sold like raffle tickets. Political cronies cut inside real estate deals where taxpayers wound up paying outlandish rents. The Sec. of State's office controlled a patronage army with a heavy hand.

With heavy media support, and no little assistance from Ryan insiders, in comes Mr. Clean, Jesse White, whose basic qualifications for the high-pressure administrative post were running a kids tumbling team.

Now we have a Democratic Sec. of State who hires party hacks, ex-cons and retreads from other governmental offices. Jesse's personnel moves take him from the frying pan to the fire.

White's staunch friends in the media are beginning to question his administrative acumen. Even political allies like State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills), who also is Lake County Democratic chairman, is scratching his head in disbelief over a department that reels from one scandal to another.

Consider what might have been.

Two years ago an earnest young Lake County politician with a record of achievement in two terms in the Illinois General Assembly offered himself to run a Sec. of State's office that would make Republicans and Democrats alike proud. He mapped out innovations to heighten service to the public and enhance revenues for education, like the School House license plate plan, a revenue sharing idea for local school districts. The young candidate hinted at problems in need of repair in the state's biggest office.

What Al Salvi got for his efforts was vilification from newspapers up and down the state and a classical political back-stabbing from his running mate who became governor. Salvi had committed the cardinal political sin of telling the unvarnished truth. He was punished with a ringing defeat at the polls in November 1998.

Dogging Welton

for an off-hand remark at a committee meeting that was offensive to members of the Jewish community. Anti-Welton forces are expected to hound the long-time mayor, even though he has apologized more than once. The most interesting part of the hubbub is that Alan Mann, president of Congregation Or Tikvah, read the response for what it is: political. Welton says he regrets the comment and we believe he means it.

Rent rates?

Libertyville Township Supervisor F.T. "Mike" Graham doesn't remain silent for too long. Now he's talking up a new response to the fact that 200 youngsters spent five days at township offices involved in kindergarten screening. Graham's new cause? Multi-use of public buildings. Mike figures the elementary school district saved about $1,000 using township facilities, money that will be put to good use in the education process. Graham's spin is that Libertyville schools are suffering from over-building so there should be increased utilization of public buildings. In his public comments, Graham didn't say whether Dist. 70 paid rent for the township offices.

Offensive message

Judy H. Fried, executive director of NICASA, the publicly funded organization fighting substance abuse, has registered a complaint against a big billboard on Rte. 137 advertising beer in Spanish. Fried is urging all persons, not only Spanish-speaking residents, to sound a protest against the targeted message.

Helping the Y

A group of Antioch Grade

School children collected pennies and nickels and turned over a $10 donation to Hastings Lake YMCA. Executive Dir. Jim Scherer wrote them a thank you letter as follows: "Dear Children:

"You are all Heroes! Because of the wonderful thing you did, giving your pennies so another child can take part in a program at the Y, you have become a hero in the eyes of all of us at Hastings Lake YMCA. You see, being generous to those who have less than yourselves is one of the ways you become a hero. I'm sure your parents and teachers tell you of other ways to be a hero as well."

"Thank you all for being such kind and generous children. Your $10 will certainly help a lot!"

Congratulations both to the kids and their parents, who are raising a fine group of young Americans.

When work is fun

If you're not doing anything the week of July 17-23, volunteering for the U.S. Women's Open Championship at Merit Club, Libertyville, might be a good place to hang out as a volunteer. But it will cost you $90.

Before sputtering about paying for the privilege of working for nothing, be aware that the $90 gets you some neat stuff besides having an opportunity to watch the best women golfers in the world, up close. The Open Volunteer package includes two golf shirts, a hat, vest, admission, free parking and meals. There are 18 different volunteer jobs, including marshals, parkers, player services, scorers/runners, standard bearers and green reporting. Tournament officials said the volunteers, who must be at least 14 years old, can work all week or just a few days.

As a teen, I worked (if you can call it work) the Women's Western Open at Sky Crest Country Club, Long Grove, now known as Twin Orchards. An unforgettable experience. Babe Didricksen and Patty Berg, both in their prime, played a sudden death playoff. It was never recorded, but my theory was that Babe deliberately tanked the playoff so her good friend, who was still recovering from injuries suffered in a severe automobile crash, could win. Babe was that kind of person and one of the reasons why she still is America's greatest female athlete.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Mayor walks tight rope in sex offender release

Buffalo Grove Mayor Elliott Hartstein is walking a political tight rope protecting the interests of citizens and upholding the law that has allowed a convicted sex offender to roam free during the day.

Hartstein says police are being extra vigilant over the actions of Michael Gilford, 47, who has court permission to leave his home from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Convicted of raping a disabled teenager in 1997, Gilford was released from prison in February on a technicality. Citizens are worried.

Back to school

In a classroom setting, Republican candidates in the November general election will get instructed on how to win at a seminar Saturday, May 20. The training session is sponsored by the Lake County Republican Federation.

Feud flourishing

Lake Forest Mayor Howard Kerr can't resist taking pot shots at George Grumley, chairman of the Lake Forest Party. Kerr considers Grumley at the bottom of efforts to undermine the city's long-standing caucus system in selecting candidates for local elections and determining policy. Grumley's group challenged the Kerr-led caucus in the March 21 election. Sounds like an old fashioned feud.

Butt out

Antioch Village Trustee Wayne Foresta is gaining a reputation for speaking his mind. He told—politely—Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. President Carol Calabresa to Kerr: Can't resist Grumley pot shots.

Pappas: Has life more in perspective.

butt out of an annexation issue. Calabresa was pushing for provision of a hiking trail as a condition of annexation.

Peace at last?

Will the peaceable efforts of Or Tikvah synagogue leader Alan Mann deter Gurnee Village officials from publicly bashing each other? You can bet your bottom dollar that personal political agendas and personality conflicts will coerce the temporary truce out of its slumber before long.

Sorry Mr. Mann, this monster is way too big for a lone dragon slayer.

Zero tolerance

During recent discussions of updated student policies at Warren Township High School Dist. 121, the district's Board of Education President Dr. Russ Schneider shared his opinion of "zero tolerance" policies with board members.

"To me, zero tolerance means zero thinking!" he said.

Perhaps Schneider would consider making a guest appearance on Bill Maher's "Politically Incorrect."

Gaining perspective

Fox Lake Mayor James Pappas had a philosophical tone during a recent village board meeting.

In a show of reflection rarely seen during local government meetings, Pappas said the death of a fine 28-year-old village employee, a single mother of three who died suddenly, helped put things into proper perspective.

He said he has grown "tired" of some less important matters that seem to dominate our lives.

"There are several complaint letters on my desk from people who want the village to get involved with their (neighborhood) problems. Two parties in one lawsuit have spent more money than it takes to buy a car," Pappas said.

He said the village cannot make people abide by the Ten Commandments or the Golden Rule.

"The village should not have to tell you to get along with your neighbors," he said.

Pappas is entering his fourth year as mayor.

Don't protesters have real lives?

For weeks on end, thousands in Miami demonstrated outside his relatives' home to "save" a 6-year-old boy named Elian from Cuba's Fidel Castro and communism.

Last month in Washington, D.C., and last December in Seattle, Wash., thousands of zealots—mostly college students—swarmed to protest against International Monetary Fund and World Bank policies and their effect on labor and the environment.

Indeed, freedom of expression is as American as pizza pie, but what baffles me is how all those protesters can afford to spend so much time away from their homes and everyday lives.

Don't they have lawns to mow, dandelions to zap, dogs to walk and kitty litter to change?

Don't they have children they must chauffeur to little league games and dance lessons—little boys with T-shirts that say KEVIN, ALEX and ZACHARY on the back who must be driven to and then cheered for at soccer fields?

Don't they have jobs they must report to in order to get the moolah that pays the rent and buys the groceries?

I can just imagine what would happen if my wife and I called our bosses one morning to say, "We won't be in today. We're going to the village hall to protest over-development and traffic gridlock."

It's almost impossible these days to pick up a newspaper, or turn on the tube, and not hear about activists protesting something, from crayola colors to country clubs, from fish nets to fur coats.

Not that there's anything wrong with legitimate, peaceful protests. It was Charles Eliot Norton who said a century ago that sometimes it is the duty of the good citizen not to be silent—that the voice of protest is needed lest we all find ourselves looking up at a tyrant and asking meekly: "Is my cheek hurting the sole of your boot?"

THE PFARR CORNER

(He didn't say it quite that well, which may explain why nobody remembers who Charles Eliot Norton was.)

This protesting craze is world-wide. Also in the news recently were demonstrations against the establishment in Yugoslavia, Indonesia, Chile and South Korea.

The trouble with such rallies is that they sometimes turn into ugly riots. When our government took little Elian away from his foot-dragging uncle and cousin and returned him to his father, Miami erupted with street protests, some so violent that police arrested 300 of the hooligans.

When "Students Against Sweatshops," a nationwide campus movement against the global economy and free trade, tried to disrupt rush-hour traffic in Washington, police in riot gear arrested some 600.

Maybe some of us made the wrong career choices. Maybe when we were growing up our elders didn't give us all the options. They said we could be doctors, lawyers, nurses, teachers, policemen, firemen and, if all else failed, maybe a journalist.

They never said anything about careers as protesters or demonstrators, but I doubt I could ever get up enough gumption to become a gadfly.

I guess I'd rather be what I am, a meek, mild-mannered journalist, a newspaper nerd.

Answering devices—Not always the answer

Have you made a telephone call about a service you are having problems with and received the "six-option" response? If you never swerved in your life, you'll learn quickly. It comes in handy to let off steam, although it won't help with your problem.

After none of the options fit to answer your problem and the last option is to hold onto the line and "someone will get to you," that someone turns out to be the dial-tone or a "six-option replay." It's not that the call is eating up your phone bill, which it probably is, it's that you want a simple answer to your simple question. Ah. But this is the modern world. Nothing is simple anymore.

Now, it's bad enough that this type of run-around happens every day as between private businesses and us ordinary citizens. We may have to accept that in today's world, but we sure can gripe about it.

This "voice mail revolution" has hit government big-time and its effect on the citizenry is just as negative towards us as private enterprise. I have read recently that both Congress and some state legislatures are considering cutbacks on the use of automated telephone devices by government agencies because of the mountain of complaints that they are receiving from constituents.

SEEING IT THROUGH

John S. Matijevich

The legislation, in most instances, would prohibit the use of these automated answering devices to be used by government agencies during business hours. The thrust behind the legislation is that during regular hours, and with all of the help that government employs, a citizen ought to be able to talk to a "live body" rather than a faceless machine. Is that too much to ask?

It is an unfortunate truth that the greater number of victims of this "machine age" are elderly people or those on fixed income who can't afford the long distance follow-up calls to help with questions that could be answered in just a few minutes if they could just talk to someone, almost anyone. There are too many bureaucrats who defend the system saying that the automated answering systems enhance productivity because they free up time for office personnel. Can't you hear the citizen frustrated by having a problem going unanswered saying,

"sure it frees up time for longer coffee breaks."

Many citizens get the notion, too, that when they hear this automated voice, it is probably sitting right by a human being with a human voice choosing not to respond to the call. Believe me, there are bureaucrats who don't like to take calls from legislators, so I can imagine that they ignore others too. Those types of bureaucrats just don't belong in public service.

The fact that federal legislation was introduced scared the heck out of some bureaucrats who offered a compromise. They said that they didn't want to do away with automated answering machines but they would make every effort to make sure that callers reach a human voice.

To me, it appears again that government is responding in typical fashion. We'll behave better; just don't tie up our hands. They offer a compromise because the heat is on. When the heat subsides, they go on to their normal ways. It will be business as usual again and the average citizen will again be frustrated by the "six option response."

There is an endangered species in government these days. It is the public servant who picks up the phone to answer a citizen with "HELLO—CAN I HELP YOU?" Where have they gone?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Beware the ripple effect

The ripple effect of the excessive development from the past 15 years, for most Lake County residents, will come in the form of school district bonds for building and referendums for operating costs. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to realize that every time a development is added to the already crowded landscape, the taxpayers are going to have to foot the bill.

Some will argue that "impact fees" have been greatly increased, but what you don't hear is that the impact fee for one house usually does not equal the cost of one child's education for one year. Some others will try to brow beat you by saying that it's our turn to pay for the services and educational costs associated with development, just as previous generations have done. The unsaid truth is that the cost for government/public schools have dramatically increased over the last 15 years, even when adjusted for inflation. Some will say the development creates more jobs, but they do not say why taxpayers should subsidize this particular type of job creation and not others.

But the biggest lamentation is that many Lake County residents never got a chance to vote on this over-development situation. Only about 10 percent of growth in the county is in the unincorporated areas, leaving 90 percent of growth to the various villages, towns, and municipalities. However, those who live in the unincorporated areas never get to vote for village/town presidents, board members, zoning directors or administrators. When approximately 70 percent of a citizen's real estate tax bill is dedicated to education via the government/public schools, those who again live in the unincorporated areas do not have a vote on what causes the major increases, namely development.

I don't pretend to know the answer to this "taxation without representation." Some will say that unincorporated taxpayers can always vote the bonds or referendums down. But the reality is that uncontrolled development creates a foreseeable crisis that is never remedied until it's too late, and the remedy is always the same: higher taxes. Everyone realizes by now that if a bond or referendum is defeated, the districts will simply come back again until it does pass.

No one wants to see any child deprived of a good education, but the influence of special interests and self-interest, in the form of run-away development, will not serve the future of our county nor our country well. Something must be done.

Education more than training

There are two educations: one should teach us how to make a living and the other how to live. — James Truslow Adams

As business owners we have a responsibility to educate others, as well as serve our customers. Many of us hire others and train them to do the work we require of them. However, our responsibility to them goes much further than on-the-job training and signing their weekly paycheck.

If free enterprise is to survive, we must teach its merits. It is the best system in the world, and we must help others understand its value.

We have our work cut out for us. All too often, the media puts a truly negative slant on business activities. Remember, few journalists have business degrees or entrepreneurial experience.

A recent report on the outcome of the Microsoft anti-trust litigation used greedy, selfish, exploitative, vicious and domineering to describe Microsoft. Most of the negative comments came in the form of direct quotes from Microsoft competitors. There was no balance in the report. Only glee that the big dog was going to have some teeth pulled by the government.

Now, I'm not here to defend Bill Gates or Microsoft. I don't own any of their stock nor do I plan to. But, in fairness to Microsoft why not talk to some consumers? After all, it is the consumer who supposedly is going to benefit from the lawsuit.

Maybe I have less faith in the government than I should, but my phone bill went up after the government broke up the Bell system. Microsoft is not a utility company. Microsoft is a publicly held, private sector, for-profit company.

The 3M method

We in business can help shape our own future. Let's spread the good word about business. Let's make certain that all people understand the importance and value of our free enterprise system. We can use this 3M method.

- Models. Young people need models. They become what they see. If you read frequently, your children will more likely become readers. If you drink frequently, your children are more likely to consume alcohol. If you over spend your income, you can expect your kids to have money problems.

Business men and women are for the most part caring, loving, community oriented folks. Make sure you're a positive role model for those watching your life.

- Mentors. Nothing can make as big an impact on a young mind as a personal session with a successful business mentor. You can show the real and exciting side of being a business owner or manager. You can share the positive side of business success in a relaxed one-to-one atmosphere. If you've never served as a mentor, I urge you to volunteer today.

- Motivators. Yes, you can be a business motivator. Motivation can be defined simply as "a motive for action."

Antioch Tire adds warehouse

Bensenville facility to increase capacity, service to dealers

One of Northern Illinois' largest independent tire companies got a little bit bigger earlier this month. Antioch Tire Inc. announced the opening of its new Bensenville mega center in April, increasing the company's ability to deliver brand-name tires to their wholesale customers.

"Antioch Tire is very proud of our new Bensenville facility," noted Tony Lavelle, President of Antioch Tire's Wholesale & Retail Division. "We now have the most advanced warehouse distribution center of its kind anywhere in this area." The new warehouse adds more than 20,000 tires in 20,000-square-feet of racking area to Antioch Tire's capacity.

According to Lavelle, the Bensenville mega center was opened to accommodate additional lines of product for the Midwest tire giant. "Antioch Tire has added Pirelli high-performance tires and has also increased our inventory of other popular brands like Cooper, General, B. F. Goodrich, Michelin, Firestone, Goodyear and Dunlop," said Lavelle. The Bensenville mega center gives Antioch Tire the depth of product required to serve over 1,000 wholesale accounts throughout the Midwest from its multi-state distribution center. The inventory also supports Antioch Tire's own stores; the company now has 10 centers located in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

"Operating efficiently with an emphasis on customer service is the key to Antioch Tire's success," continued Lavelle. "That's as true today as it was when we opened our first store 20 years ago. The combination of new brands and plenty of inventory takes the burden of stocking, managing and financing inventory off of our wholesale customers." Since Cooper Tire & Rubber Company closed and re-located their Chicago-based Midwest distribution center in March, Antioch Tire has become the supplier for all the direct Cooper dealers in the Chicagoland area as well as the outlying suburbs.

In addition to its retail operation, Antioch Tire has commercial and wholesale locations in Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana and manufactures large specialty tires in Indiana.

OMC to open Canadian plant

Fueled by increasing consumer demand, Waukegan-based Outboard Marine Corporation's Princecraft aluminum boat division plans to expand its manufacturing capacity to serve its growing dealer network on a much more timely basis.

Marcel Dubois, President of North America's premium manufacturer of aluminum boats, pontoons and deck boats, said the company would open a new 125,000-square-foot plant on a 43-acre site in Quebec in October. The facility will offer 100,000 square feet of manufacturing and service space and another 25,000 square feet of indoor loading facilities and warehousing.

North Chicago buys former bank building

Site may become home to new police headquarters, satellite location

In a move Mayor Jerry L. Johnson said is a continuation of his war against crime, the city of North Chicago has acquired the former First Midwest Bank building and site located at 1811 Sheridan Road.

The mayor said the purchase is the first step in a process to relocate the police headquarters or a new auxiliary station in the heart of the old downtown area of the City. The First Midwest Bank has moved to a new location on 14th Street.

The merchants and residents in the area raised fears that the decision to close the bank branch would have a negative impact on the future economic viability of the downtown. The Downtown Revitalization Committee has repeatedly asked for increased police patrol in the area.

The Mayor directed staff to consider the feasibility of acquiring the site for a police facility more than six months ago.

"Such an acquisition and relocation of a Police station would send a strong message to our existing business community as well as future investors who may want to develop in this area as being part of the newly created TIF district," Johnson said.

"This sends a strong message to the criminals that the mere presence of our police facility and the activity of police officers logistically moving to and from the station would be a deterrent in itself. The city has a 'zero tolerance' for crime and we will continue to return this community back to the businesses and citizens as it once was," he added.

Johnson solicited help from State Rep. Susan Garrett to secure a grant in the amount of $300,000 as the first step in this process. Representative Garrett delivered on the request and funding has been secured through the state's Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

Johnson has instructed the Police Department to contact the Building Department and Community

Exec plans United Way Campaign

A chief executive officer who believes in corporate and personal giving to charity is already at work planning the 2000 campaign for United Way of Lake County—even before the annual United Way meeting May 18, at Holiday Inn Gurnee, that will cap off the 1999 campaign.

Tyler: Believes in giving.

That kind of energy and commitment illustrates why Ed Tyler, president and CEO of Moore Corporation Limited, Bannockburn, was chosen.

Tyler, a resident of Lake County for less than a year, admits that he was surprised when asked to serve. But the long-time executive says he was honored.

In an interview conducted by United Way, Tyler illustrated his personal conviction of the importance of giving. "I think anyone with a steady income needs to really look at those less fortunate and understand that it's important to assist."

Tyler's background in charity work covers United Way/Crusade of Mercy (Chicago), United Way of Suburban Chicago and service as a director of the American Red Cross of Greater Chicago. He was introduced to United Way at R.R. Donnelley & Sons Co., where he worked for 25 years, breaking in as an electrical engineer. Ultimately he became executive vice president and chief technology officer for the printing company.

Becoming Moore's CEO in 1998, Tyler commuted to work from his home in Hinsdale so as not to interrupt his son's high school education. Tyler and his wife, Vickie, a volunteer for the elderly, also are the parents of a daughter. They now reside in Lake Forest.

Tyler leaves no doubt about his commitment to good corporate citizenship and giving. Moore tripled its United Way gift last year.

Besides annual reports, the May 18 meeting includes election of the board of directors and presentation of awards.

Development departments of code violations. This includes properties that have been abandoned, neglected and contributed to the crime problem for years. The owners are notified for either repair or removal. If a particular business or residential property continues to cause problems, the U.S. Attorney's Office is contacted to enforce the nuisance abatement laws.

The purchase of the former bank site, 1811 Sheridan Road, holds great promise for revitalizing North Chicago. Johnson said, "I want the existing businesses to remain in North Chicago and new business investment to see my commitment in making the Sheridan Road commercial district the best possible environment for revitalization."

RE/MAX reports sales record

The RE/MAX of Northern Illinois network reports that is sales activity set new records for the year's first quarter, as well as for the month of March. First-quarter, closed sales volume for the network rose to more than $1.9 billion, a 9.86 percent increase over the record sales achieved during the first quarter of 1999. Transactions for the quarter reached 10,796, up from 10,383 last year, a gain of approximately 4 percent.

Closed sales volume for the month of March was approximately $839 million, a 16.23 percent rise compared to March of last year. Transactions for the month totaled 4,740 an increase of 9.54 percent over March of last year. Pace wins national award for bus safety Pace has been judged the winner of a national safety award by the American Public Transit Association for the suburban transit agency's improved bus safety record in 1999. Pace earned the award by reducing the number of vehicle accidents and passenger injuries reported during 1999 when compared to the preceding two years. Of all the transit agencies competing for the award, Pace showed the greatest improvement in safety.

Fansteel reports quarter results

Fansteel Inc., North Chicago, reported net sales of $39.5 million in the first quarter of 2000, an increase of 6.6 percent compared to net sales of $37 million for the same period of 1999. All three of the company's business segments experienced sales growth compared to the first quarter of 1999, with wear parts, construction tools, sand castings, and powdered metal components showing the most improvement. Net income for the first quarter of 2000 was $1.7 million or $.20 per share, compared to net income for the first quarter of 1999 of $1 million or $.12 per share.

SPRING Home & Garden '00

A properly edged lawn can save lawn care time

Thanks to inexpensive string trimmers or "weed whips", trimming the edge of a lawn is no longer backbreaking work. But it is work that homeowners can mostly avoid by choosing "maintenance free" edging materials where a lawn borders trees, flower beds, fences and foundations. Choosing the proper edging materials can knock hours off the typical homeowner's yard maintenance chores over the spring and summer months.

"Although string trimmers are easier to use than grass shears, letting the lawnmower cut that grass is even easier," says Jeremy Powers, a writer for national home and how-to publications. Meticulous gardeners may spend nearly as much time with a string trimmer as they do with the mower, Powers said.

A distinct edge that can be mowed over without ruining the edging or mower blade is the easiest way to keep the lawn looking good without extra work. Plastic edging meets these criteria, but requires digging and trenching to install. Powers says, "Many plastic lawn edging products eventually work themselves out of the ground. Not only does this look terrible until repaired, but mowing over the dislodged edging becomes virtually impossible."

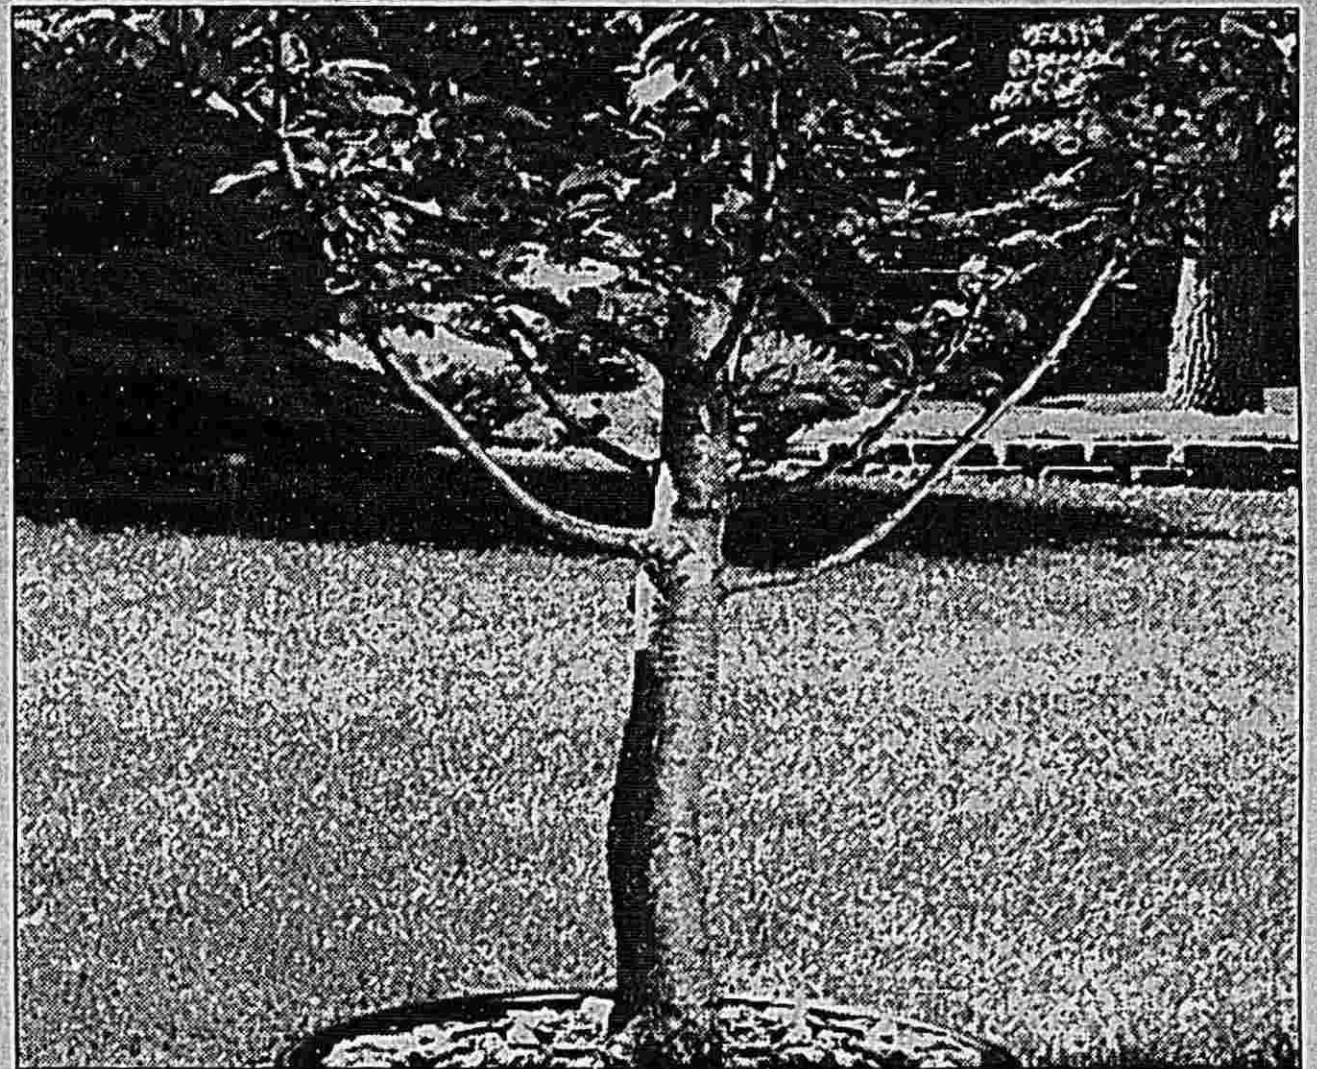

A variety of wood products also offer "mower friendly" options for edging if they are installed properly. However, even cedar and redwood lumber will rot over time where there is ground contact unless it is treated with a preservative. "Green-treated lumber can look too industrial for some people" Powers said.

Brick and stone can ruin a mower blade, so if it is used, make sure it is smooth on top and wide enough for the mower wheel to ride on. Powers comments, "If your edging material won't allow you to run the mower over it, choose a product with a shape that minimizes trimming. Any edging with little nooks and crannies, such as odd shaped stones, will make the trimming job much more time consuming."

The base of trees is one of the most common yard areas trimmed with "weed whips". Both string trimmers and mowers are responsible for the majority of trees that die after planting because of damage to the bark. Unfortunately, there are not many product options for edging around individual trees, particularly younger trees when the bark is most fragile.

A new product, called Arbor Edge, is a one piece edging system for trees, shrubs, and flagpoles, that combines a circular plastic edge with a weed-proof basin that holds mulch or decorative rock. Arbor Edge is designed to enable a mower wheel to ride over the plastic edge, eliminating the need for additional trimming. The Arbor Edge is attractive, inexpensive, and easy to install without a need for trenching or staking.

Edging products are made by numerous manufacturers and are readily available at home and garden centers. For information on the new Arbor Edge, call ADO Products at 612/428-7802.

Thanks to inexpensive string trimmers or 'weed whips', trimming the edge of a lawn is no longer backbreaking work. But it is work that homeowners can mostly avoid by choosing 'maintenance free' edging materials.

Teachers learn what birds prefer at 'Trees' class

Wisconsin school teachers are invited to improve their building skills and environmental teaching methods while earning University of Wisconsin credits in the process at a four day workshop this June at Trees For Tomorrow in Eagle River, WI.

"June 19-23 are the dates for our first summer workshop for teachers and this year the lead-off topic is 'Birding By Habitat,'" said workshop coordinator Joe Panci. "One of our favorite UW instructors, Harriet Irwin, will be teaching the course."

Panci said teachers who attend, whether they are beginning or advanced birders, can expect to learn to identify a variety of species, songs, behaviors and field markings in several habitats. "Participants will travel to a forested area, a swamp, a lake watershed, a meadow and a backyard among other areas to learn which birds prefer what

Trees For Tomorrow is a specialty school focusing on natural resource topics and has offered summer seminars for UW credit for over 50 years. Teachers can learn more about the birding course or receive a schedule of other offerings by calling 800-TFT-WISC.

"The cost for the birding course is $250 plus UW tuition, but we've generally got scholarships available for teachers from various businesses, service clubs and conservation agencies around the state," Panci said.

Panci said the Birding By Habitat workshop would also include some information on raptors and a nighttime owl expedition was planned. "We pack a lot of information into a few days," Panci concluded, "and we'd encourage teachers to reserve space now for the building course since it usually fills quickly as the summer months draw near."

University of Illinois Extension offers more spring gardening classes

Due to popular demand, University of Illinois Extension in Lake County will repeat two of the spring gardening classes offered earlier this year. Both the classes will be taught by Extension Horticulturist Sharon Yiesla. The classes are as follows:

"Ornamental Grasses": Wednesday, May 10, 1-3 p.m. Ornamental grasses are one of the new trends in gardening. They can add color and pizzazz to your garden. Find out what they are, how to grow them and how they can be used in the garden. A number of different grass species will be featured in a slide presentation.

"Garden Design and Landscape Basics":

Wednesday, May 17, 1-3 p.m. You've spent a great deal of time deciding which plants you want. How can you use those plants to make a beautiful garden? Learn the principles of design that will help you create a special landscape. This presentation will cover the basic of designing with flowers as well as proper placement of trees and shrubs for the best effect.

These classes are offered at no charge. Advanced registration is required for all sessions. To register, call the Extension office at 223-8627. Call early, as classes are expected to fill quickly. All sessions will be held at the Extension office in Grayslake.

7 keys to make your home's exterior shine

A spring breeze wafting through a freshly-cleaned home is one of the best feelings in the world. And as you relax in your sparkling clean interior, don't forget that the outside of your home also needs attention.

"Nothing welcomes people to your home like a well-tended exterior," says home care expert Gerry Luepke. "The patio furniture and yard accessories extend your first greeting. With a little planning and the right products, outdoor spring-cleaning will go smoothly and you'll be proud of your results."

It is important to get dirt, mildew and other weathering signs cleaned from the outdoor surfaces such as vinyl, wood, wrought iron, and stone. Springtime usually means window washing and painting as well.

Choosing the right tools and cleaning products is important. "Gather your tools before you start. You will need several soft scrub brushes in different sizes, along with sponges for washing and rinsing, and cleaning cloths or paper towels for drying," Luepke says. All of these can be found at your local hardware store.

Luepke recommends a good all-purpose cleaner, such as Professional Strength Soilax, and plenty of water to get successful results. "Be sure to follow package directions to mix up your cleaning solutions and dissolve all the ingredients well. Always test the surfaces by cleaning a small, inconspicuous area first," Luepke says.

Complete your cleaning kit with several sizes of buckets, household gloves, and maybe a plastic tote basket to keep everything together. There will be no need to make a trip to the store for missing supplies; you'll only stop to admire your handiwork!

Luepke recommends this recipe:

- 1/3 cup powdered laundry detergent

- 2/3 cup Soilax

- 3 quarts water

NOTE: If mildew is a problem, add 1 quart 5% chlorine bleach

VINYL, WOOD - siding, decks, furniture and fencing

Vinyl is a common outdoor surface that is durable and stays looking good with basic care. Wood furniture looks better for longer if it is covered and stored for the winter. To clean these surfaces, wash with a Soilax solution, using a scrub brush if necessary, and rinse well. A bucket, pump sprayer or power washer may be used to apply the washing solution.

WINDOWS

Sparkling clean windows brighten up the whole house, inside and out. Clean windows on a cloudy day, so they won't dry too quickly and leave streaks. A helpful hint - dry the windows using newsprint to minimize streaking.

To clean screens, wash them with a cleaning solution, rinse well, and let them air dry. Make window washing a team effort, with one person washing the inside and one person washing the outside. This makes it much easier to see that there are no streaks left behind.

PAINTING PREPARATION

Many people choose spring to do major paint jobs on the outside of houses, garages and sheds. It's important that surfaces be as clean as possible to insure proper paint adhesion. A mixture of cup of Soilax per gallon of warm water can be used because it requires no rinsing and dries quickly.

WROUGHT IRON - furniture and ornaments

Wrought iron adds a touch of elegance to any yard. To clean wrought iron, wash with clear water using a damp cloth or sponge and wipe dry. Adding a protective coat of liquid wax makes cleaning easier and guards against rust. Be sure to read all the instructions first. Use a commercial rust cleaner as necessary, following the directions on the container.

CLAY POTS

Grouping decorative plants on the patio adds a special touch. Using acrylics to paint designs on patio planters is a popular way to liven up the exterior of clay pots. Prepare the pots for painting by cleaning the surface thoroughly. Give previously used "plain" pots a springtime cleanup by scrubbing away the un-slightly mineral deposits left by watering on both the inside and outside of the pots. Soak the pots in clear water first to loosen the deposits. Use a washing solution and a scrub brush to clean the pots. Rinse well.

STONE - pathways, walls, statuary

Stone ornamentation adds special character to the yard. To clean stone, wash with a mild cleaning solution. Rinse well with clear water and let dry.

"Have fun while you get ready for spring. Work outdoors when you can and let the kids help," says Luepke. "When your spring cleaning tasks are completed, treat yourself - fire up the barbecue grill and enjoy."

Root canal treatment made easier for patients and dentist

Sony and Fiberdent develop new fiber optic camera to see inside a tooth

According to the American Association of Endodontists, up to forty million root canal procedures are performed in the U.S. annually. Over the years, the thought of root canal treatment has caused many patients undue stress and worry about seeing their dentist. A new technological advance has revolutionized the way root canals are done. The new procedure, called oroscopy, is a technique that uses a micro-fiber optic endoscope, which enables a dentist or endodontist (dentist specializing in root canal treatment) to see inside a tooth, which may result in fewer visits and less anxiety for the patient.

The actual micro-fiber optic endoscope used for oroscopy is called the Orascope. It was developed in 1998 by Fiberdent of Ann Arbor, Mich. Myron Czubko, president and founder of Fiberdent, Inc. remarked "I first looked in medicine to see what type of fiberoptic visualization existed, but to my surprise, the quality of fiberoptic technology was guarded at best."

"It was this need for high-resolution image quality that led Fiberdent to work with Sony Electronics' imaging technology as the key elements of the Orascope system," said Jim Sandy, vice president of medical systems for Sony Electronics' Broadcast and Professional Company. "By combining Sony advances in imaging with Fiberdent's micro-fiber optic technology, dentists and endodontists now have an end-to-end solution that has transformed visualization within dentistry."

With the use of custom fiber optic lenses, high image quality and resolution from Sony's cameras and monitors, dentists have the ability to clearly see within the tooth for the first time.

Drs. James Bahcall and Joseph Barss at Northwestern University school of Dentistry in Chicago have pioneered oroscopy in the field of endodontics. Prior to their development of this procedure, root canals were performed with limited visualization. Most "visualization" was done by the tactile feel of the file (root canal instrument) placed inside the tooth that was then checked with a dental x-ray.

"In the healthcare arena, historically medicine has been 5 to 10 years ahead of dentistry with both procedure and technology," said Dr. Bahcall. "For the first time, oroscopy has changed this. The development of the micro-fiber optic endoscope has allowed the dentist and endodontist to see within tooth structure which up to now was not possible. I foresee this technological advancement in dentistry entering many of the microsurgical fields in medicine."

"This device represents a quantum leap in visualization and ergonomics for dentists and endodontists performing root canal treatment," states Dr. Barss. "The Orascope can be easily manipulated. Older technologies, such as surgical microscopes and medical rod-lens endoscopes enabled vision within the oral cavity, but were bulky and offered a limited depth-of-field that required frequent refocusing."

The advancement of fiber optic technology has allowed the development of oroscopy. Dentist can now easily see within a tooth, which may reduce the amount of time the patient needs to spend in the chair. Also, a patient can watch the root canal procedure from the Sony monitor while it is being performed by the dentist. This may alleviate anxiety because the patient understands exactly what is being done, thereby removing the fear of the unknown.

Oroscopy procedures are captured using a high-resolution Sony DSR20MD digital DVCAM VTR (Digital Video Tape Recorder). The very high-resolution DVCAM format (500 lines of resolution), allows the dentist to capture digital still images from the video that can be used for treatment documentation.

Macular degeneration impairs vision as many people age

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can anything be done for macular degeneration? — F.C.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My doctor says I have some macular degeneration in both eyes. I have been taking lutin for it. Can you shed some light on this problem for me? — M.H.

ANSWER: Macular degeneration is a common consequence of aging. The macula is a tiny spot on the eye's retina that's essential for central and detailed vision. With macular degeneration, the vision cells of the macula begin to crumble and die. Reading becomes nearly impossible. People cannot enjoy television. Faces are blurs.

No medicine or surgery halts macular degeneration, however, there are things to do that make life livable. Low-vision clinics provide magnifying lenses that permit reading. That's only one of the services those clinics offer. Your eye doctor can direct you to a nearby clinic.

Lutein (LOU-tee-in) and zeaxanthin (zee-ah-ZAN-thin) are two substances found in many foods. They protect the retina and the macula from harmful ultraviolet rays. They don't restore vision, but they might be able to slow degeneration of the macula. Food sources of these two products include green, leafy vegetables, egg yolks, corn, kiwi, seedless red grapes, zucchini, spinach, collard greens, orange juice and squash.

I described "dry" macular degeneration, the more common kind of degeneration. It accounts for 90 percent of all macular degeneration. "Wet" macular degeneration results from out-of-control growth of blood vessels on the retina. The vessels leak blood and fluid. Laser beam treatments can seal those leaky vessels.

TO YOUR HEALTH

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

No one with macular degeneration need feel alone. The Foundation Fighting Blindness provides literature on this common eye condition and alerts patients to any new, promising treatments. Their number is (888) 665-9010.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I suffer from pruritus ani, known in some circles as "Itchy behind." I have consulted five doctors and tried 15 prescriptions, but nothing helps. Must I live with this for the rest of my life? — J.L.

ANSWER: Let's start from scratch — don't scratch. The momentary relief of scratching compounds the problem. Scratched skin thickens, dries and intensifies the itch. When at home, a cold pack relieves itching. Before going to sleep, take an antihistamine such as Benadryl. It makes a person drowsy and decreases the itchy sensation.

Overzealous cleaning can intensify the itch. Insufficient cleaning leaves fecal contamination that exacerbates it. A happy medium must be found. Gently clean the area with Tucks Pads. Don't ever use scented or colored tissue.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column when every possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Defiance of dissection assignment—good or bad?

Hi Dr. Singer,

Our daughter has recently gone through an episode and we were wondering if we could get your opinion on it. She is in science in school right now and recently got into a fight with her science teacher over dissection. She was asked to dissect an animal as a class assignment. She refused. In our home, we have taught our kids to be kind to animals and respect their lives. We did not expressly tell her to not dissect this creature, but obviously our teachings effected her decision. The long and short of this is that she received a bad grade because she didn't want to do this dissection. We were proud of her for standing on her principals, but we wanted to get an outside opinion other than those we have heard from the school. We thought of you immediately. What do you think about this situation? A.S.

Hi A.S.,

I am also very proud of your daughter! While anyone who knows me, knows that I would never support unreasonable defiant behavior in a child, I don't view this as unreasonable or defiant behavior. I would like to speak first to what your daughter did and then speak in general to the whole topic of dissection in school.

PARENT'S PLACE

Your daughter clearly can see beyond herself. She knows that she is not the only important species on this planet and respects that. I also believe in respecting other species. I believe that we create humanity by having that respect.

Too many people out there mistreat animals in terrible ways and allow kids to do the same. When someone allows that to happen, they either don't have compassion or don't think of animals as being as worthwhile as humans are. That type of person also generally does not have compassion for anyone. Your daughter has been taught differently. Your teachings and your feelings about this have trained her to be a compassionate person who can see outside of her own existence. You are good parents for doing that. You have created in her a compassionate heart that ultimately will extend to everyone and everything she touches.

Now, as for dissection in school. I have never been able to understand the thought behind this stupidity. In Jr. High, kids are not studying to be veterinarians. They are also usually not mature enough to understand the true meaning of what they are doing when they dissect an animal. These science classes are objectifying living beings, and I believe that they are teaching very wrong messages to kids at way too young an age. Teaching a child that an animal is theirs to cut open is wrong. Classifying this as science is also wrong. Again, if these were young adult people, studying to be veterinarians and needing to know how the animal's system works, that would be one thing. This is never the case with Jr. High dissection.

Most kids at that age get so sick from the process that they don't learn anything anyway. I sure didn't. Additionally, the less mature kids can get very inappropriate. Case in point: when I was in 7th grade, one of the boys decided it would be funny to pull out one of the eyes of a fish, stick it on a probe and fling it at the nearest girl. I thought to myself even then, what the devil is anyone learning from this. Well, that boy learned that he could lord his power over those weaker than him. Great message to be teaching young kids.

The other thing that urks me is that in this day of computers, there are any number of science programs that can be used without having to harm one animal. Why would anyone choose to do this barbaric ritual over using the new technology available to them.

I have never been supportive of dissection and to this day feel that it teaches kids that they are more important than other species. Again, I will say that a person who learns compassion for other species and a person who does not feel like they lord power over the rest of the earth, develops into a much more compassionate, decent person than those who feel that they can just cut into any creature they want.

I will also say that kids who perform animal cruelty are usually on a very dangerous behavioral path. Why would it become acceptable in a science class? Unfortunately, also, unless things have changed a lot, even when I was in College, cruelty was regularly performed in the name of science.

When I was in College, I started out in pre-veterinarian and even there, while teaching students how to give appropriate vaccination techniques, the teachers used the same three puppies for eight classes to practice on. I left the lab in tears, in the middle of class, and quit pre-vet at that moment.

These teachers seemed completely out of touch with the fact that they were allowing inexperienced people to be repeatedly sticking these innocent, sweet, little babies over and over again with no compassion, in the name of teaching and science. I didn't say anything then because I hadn't found my voice and to this day, could kick myself for it. If it were now, it would be very different. Teaching vaccine technique is fine, but simulate it or be humane to the animals and use many, many, many animals so that they get stuck once and not 80 times by inexperienced people.

Keeping children safe from hazardous products

The Illinois Department of Public Health is partnering with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) this spring to help raise awareness for a "Recall Round-up" of hazardous children's products that may still be in people's homes.

The Department, as a result of last year's passage of the Children's Product Safety Act, maintains a Web site www.idph.state.il.us/childsafety/childsafetyhome.htm that features a comprehensive recall list of consumer products that may pose a safety risk to children.

These recalls, ordered by federal government agencies like the CPSC or the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, since 1989, are categorized by topics -- bunk beds, child safety seats, clothing, furniture, gym/swing sets, infant carriers and strollers, pacifiers, playpen/play yard, toys and other children's products.

As Illinoisans undertake their spring cleaning, Dr. Lumpkin encourages them to look for products that might be hazardous to children. Products recently recalled that may still be in homes include:

- Infant car seat/carriers where the handles can unexpectedly release, causing the seat to flip forward and the infant to fall. Carriers recalled are Evenflo Model 207 and 492 made before July 27, 1997; Cosco "Arriva" and "Turnabout" models made before Sept. 9, 1997; and Kolcraft "Infant Rider," "Secura" and other models made from Jan. 1, 1993 through June 30, 1999. CPSC knows of 160 injuries, including skull fractures and concussions, involving the recalled carriers.

- Pokemon balls distributed with Burger King kids meals in November and December 1999 may pose a suffocation hazard to children under 3 years of age. The Pokemon balls should be taken away from young children and discarded or returned to a Burger King restaurant for a free order of french fries.

Shared experiences, insights at conference

Leah M. Killeen (nee Magrini)

Born and raised in Chicago's old town, she was the first "official" model of the famous photographer, Victor Skrebneski. Former waitress and 10 year employee of Marshall Fields, Leah is best remembered for her "green thumb" and love of plants and flowers. She survived many hardships, including a devastating fire in Grayslake, only three months after the death of her husband, Paul. She and husband Paul, raised their family in the Chain of Lakes area. In 1995 she relocated to Matteson, where she spent her time planting and cultivating. She overcame physical hardships with courage and grace and never gave up. We will surely miss her but will always carry the happy and joyful memories in our heart forever.

Beloved wife of the late, Paul J. Killeen, loving mother of Paula (Rob) Jonker, Jay (Beverly) Killeen; adoring grandmother of Ryan; dear sister of Aldo and Leo Magrini; sister-in-law of Mary Ellen Magrini and the late, Elizabeth Magrini; aunt of many nieces and nephews.

Details on Scattering Your Resume

Last week I said the shotgun approach was the best technique for those who have not identified, in detail, every aspect of their career direction. At that time I promised to explore that technique this week. Let's start.

Where to Begin

The first step in the process is to let everyone know that you are exploring other career directions. Everyone, that is, whom you can trust. Should I let my current employer know? Yes if you believe: your employer values you, your employer is willing to discuss other opportunities with you, and you want to stay in this company.

Give everyone you know your current resume and ask them if they know about any opportunities. Ask them about the company where they work now and those where they have worked in the past. Also ask if you can mention their name when you apply. This helps you to get in the door and they may get a referral bonus. Send a resume to each of these companies. The second step is to look at the local newspapers. Thoroughly reading the help wanted ads is a great way to get ideas on different jobs that may interest you. Send your resume to every company that advertises an opportunity that may interest you.

The local papers are especially good because you are close enough to interview with companies when you get to that stage of the process. You should interview at every opportunity. Newspapers from other cities are also a good resource if you are willing to move.

Basic Guidelines for the Shotgun Approach

- Tell as many people as possible that you are considering other opportunities
 - Go to as many interviews as possible
 - Whenever possible, have someone refer you to a potential employer (however, if you do not have a sponsor, you should still apply.)
- Every time you talk to someone about a potential employer, document that conversation. List the assets of that employer and the drawbacks (all companies have them.) Over time these documents will help you to more clearly define the specifics of the best job for you. Then you will be able to use the preferred rifle technique, which we will explore in more detail next week.

ATTENTION PET OWNERS
WE DO NOT KNOWINGLY ACCEPT ADS FOR ANIMALS IN OUR FREE/ GIVE AWAY COLUMN.
If you must give up your pet, please consider these facts.
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are not reputable and are more concerned about making a profit than the animal.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,
Q: I was informed that I have been fired from my job with (name withheld) today by way of a letter that was sent to me overnight delivery. The letter came from the manager of the personnel department stating that the reason for my termination was due to "job abandonment." After leaving work on Friday, I had a message on my answering machine that a friend of mine had been involved in a bad accident out of state. I got my things together and left town that evening. I tried to call the company to let them know that I will more than likely not be in on Monday, but there was no answer since the switchboard had already closed. Once I got to my destination, and in the midst of all the commotion I completely slipped my mind. Monday evening I didn't reach the company to tell them that I would not be returning until Wednesday. Once again I was too late to call, so I called on Tuesday morning when the company opened and explained the situation to them. My boss seemed to be understanding over the phone, when I explained I would return on Wednesday, and he asked who the emergency was involving. I told him it was a family friend I grew up with that moved away. I didn't return home until the early morning hour on Wednesday, giving me just enough time to dress for work and be there on time. As I approached my front door I saw the overnight delivery envelope and opened it to find that I had been terminated. No reason given. I have been with this company for close to six years and don't feel this is fair. I tried to call the company but was given to voice mail 4 times. I know sometimes you help others with problems. I would like to get my job back and don't understand their turning their back on me. Please advise what I should do. Thank you, V.G. - (via e-mail)
A: In speaking with your former employer, I was told that the company felt their letter to you was self explanatory. Although you did not include a copy of the letter you received, I was assured by them that it distinctly outlined the reasons for your termination. The main reason was your failure to appear for work for two full days without any word from you. This in itself caused the utmost concern by your co-workers, as they were baffled by your disappearance. The company, eventually hearing from you, was relieved to find out that you were all right. Unfortunately for you, the company also looked upon the situation as unacceptable, which I agree. The fact that you forgot to call the company on Monday was not very responsible on your part. However, according to the manager, your call on Tuesday did not come in until after 11:00 and not first thing in the morning as you stated. Your absence was considered unexcused at that point. Realizing the nature of the absence being that of an emergency, was understandable but not acceptable. The manager went on to say that while the company is very sympathetic to their employees needs for personal time off, a few of your co-workers made it clear that you had been planning a quick weekend trip to see your friend that weekend. This would and should have given you plenty of time to schedule the time off. This all may have been avoided had that been done... except, the manager had mentioned that you had far exceeded any personal time off and you were clearly aware of that. With that in mind, it was of the opinion of the company that you had already known that you would not have been given the time off, and so you found a way to take it anyway. They felt that your failure to call the company was nothing short of not wanting to be confronted. Your record of defying the company rules coupled with a list of excuses for what I felt was excessive absenteeism was read to me, leaving me to say, the company had strong grounds for your dismissal, six years employed with them or not. When applying for your next job, be honest about the reason for being terminated, because employers today are smart enough to check references, and your former employer was more than willing to tell all! Good luck.
